Consider Joe, Chimpanzee Hard to Get, Hard to Use Not Nickels, but Billions "Ending" Radicalism

Current Events

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1924, Star Co.

JOE, aged chimpanzee, alleged member of a tribe from which sprang the Caucasian race, has known a moment of exaltation. His keeper, as usual, entered the cage to clean it. Joe, just for a change, swung his knotty, hairy black hand around, knocked the keeper senseless with ease, went out the open door and walked in the park. He stopped to exchange courtesies with his friend, John Barrett, eighty-three-year-old park employe. Soon he was on his way back to the cage.

LEARN that when you admire a prizefighter you admire only a poor imitation of a chimpanzee, and a worse imitation of a gorilla, that could beat any twenty prizefighters in forty seconds.

Learn also from Joe, the chimpanzee, that freedom depends not on how hard you can HIT, but how well you can THINK. Radicals urging each other "to rise and throw off their chains" should study Joe, the chimpanzee. He rose, knocked down his keeper, and walked out of the cage, but he didn't know what to DO next. "There's the rub."

GEORGE L. BROWN, English worker in a Pittsburgh steel mill, who invested $5 in a British lottery, won $42,500, is on his way to England. How long do you think he will keep the $42,500 or any of it?

On the other hand, Winchester, Virginia, sees a "bonded caretaker" and armed guards protecting the house of the late Miss Martha Shumate. The house is stuffed with money, greenbacks, gold coins, etc., behind pictures, under floors, in closets.

Some with money don't know how to KEEP it. Others with money don't know how to ENJOY it or make it useful. A wise man said:

"Some have meat that cannot eat. And some can eat that have no meat. But I have meat and I can eat, so God be greet."

GENERAL DAWES tells a crowd "to hold on to Coolidge," praising the President as a "close President who watches the nickels."

There are much better reasons than that for "holding on to Coolidge." "Nickel nursing," as the slang of the day has it, is not the important work of a President. What the people want is a President that will watch the millions and the billions. Ordinary bookkeepers will take care of the nickels, in spite of the old proverbs. Take care of the millions and billions, Mr. Coolidge. The nickels will take care of themselves.

REPRESENTATIVE OGDEN L. MILLS, earnest individual, with much inherited money, says that he wants a huge vote for Coolidge, because that would "stop La Follette's revolutionary movement," and dispose of radicalism for all time.

If Mr. Mills had worked for his money he would know more about radicalism, and would know that "stopping it for all time" is not easy. They tried to stop radicalism for all time when the Gracchi stirred up trouble in Rome. They tried it again after the French Revolution, when the kings came back. But the kings went out again and the French republic came in.

What Mr. Mills calls "radicalism" today will be called old-fashioned conservatism not many years hence. Not even a "huge vote for Coolidge" will make the world stand still.

RICHARD GAFFNEY, seventy, and his wife, same age, lived together through good times and bad. Bad times got worse. Gaffney could work no longer as a boilermaker, his wife could earn no money. Their last good friend died. Mrs. Gaffney said to a neighbor, "When we go, my husband and I will go together."

They went together on Tuesday. They turned on the gas.

A SAD STORY, but there are young men and women, busy with their Paris divorces,

TELLS OF SALISBURY BRIBES

Selectman Says He Was Told by Chief Congdon to "Fix It" With Coast Guard Skipper

Police Chief Harold F. Congdon of Salisbury told Ruel S. Getchell directly after the latter's election as selectman of Salisbury that there was money in the liquor business and they could make some money out of it.

Getchell gave this testimony today in Federal Court, before Judge Lowell and a jury, where four alleged North Shore liquor conspirators are on trial.

Chief Congdon and Selectman Everett R. George, two of the original defendants, yesterday pleaded nolo and were withdrawn as defendants.

In his testimony today, Getchell declared the police chief said to him: "Put it up with Burnham (Captain Harry F. Burnham, commander of the Newburyport life saving station on Pine Island) and we can make some money."

Chief Congdon later gave Getchell $1,000 to pay Albert H. Reynolds, former Salisbury city councilor, who in turn would "fix" Burnham, Getchell testified.

Trouble arose, however, when Congdon accused Getchell of stealing $500 of the money.

Reynolds, who also testified today, stated that Getchell went to him in September of 1922, and asked him to tell Burnham, the "ring" would pay Burnham $1 a case for all liquor run in past his station.

CAPTAIN REFUSED.

When the proposition was put up to Burnham, however, the coast guard captain refused to consider it. Later Getchell gave Reynolds a sum of money, which he recalled as $100 and out of which he paid Burnham half, he testified.

During the time the conspiracy existed, Reynolds said, Getchell gave him $800 or $900, which he split with Burnham.

Selectman Howard F. George, of Salisbury and a member of the police force, testified that Chief Congdon had sent him down to the beach where he had seen liquor landed.

Witness said he saw on the beach Herman Rich, a defendant, "the Jap," Anthony Caramagno, and others.

RED-HEADED BANDITS HOLD UP A CAFETERIA

New York, Oct. 23.—Two bandits, described as redheaded, today held up a cafeteria on Broadway near Sixty-seventh street and escaped with $400. An attempt to shoot the cashier proved unsuccessful when a pistol failed to function.

BROCKTON FACTORY BURNS

Plant of the Thompson, Field Company on Montello St. Is Swept by Flames

Brockton, Oct. 23.—The factory of the Thompson-Field Company, No. 1064 Montello street, manufacturers of shoe supplies, was swept by fire today.

The los will exceed $15,000. The blaze started in the basement of the factory among highly inflammable material and spread rapidly.

Two engine companies responded and confined the fire to the building. Lee Howes, Spring street, a repair man, who was working on machinery at the plant, rushed into the blaze to get his clothing, and was burned about the face and neck.

Erroll M. Thompson, president of the company, announced that the firm had so many orders it could not stop for one minute.

He is looking for a site and intends to resume manufacture of his product tomorrow morning.

FORTY BULL MOOSERS OUT FOR LA FOLLETTE

Chicago, Oct. 23.—John M. Nelson, National director of the La Follette-Wheeler campaign, today made public a joint declaration of some forty supporters of the Roosevelt Progressive party of 1912, pledging assistance in the endeavor to elect the independent candidates.

The list of signers was headed by Harold L. Ickes, former Bull Moose committeeman from Illinois; Amos Pinchot, New York; Miss Jane Addams and Francis J. Heney, of California.

The case against George T. Rexton, Roxbury, and James Kelley, Cambridge, charged with holding up and robbing Waldon Caldwell, messenger of the Framingham Trust Co., at Holliston, May 26, was given to the jury in Middlesex Superior Court today. LUNCHES AND RIDES TO HOUNDS

Crowds Line Highways to See the Royal Visitor in "Drag" Hunt

The pick of Boston's bluest blood rubbed shoulders, "hunted" and hoisted tea with the eldest Windsor boy today, and the anxious hours of doubt and disappointment preceding his arrival at Hamilton faded in the light of the Prince of Wales' smiles.

Albert Edward David Windsor proved everything pretty that has been said about him and Boston society, dressed in sawtoothed garb from riding costume to dinner jam and jacket—threw off its boredom during his short, jeered stay.

Beginning with his arrival at Lowell at 10 o'clock, through luncheon at the Ipswich estate of the Francis R. Appletons, over the rolling hills and vales pounded by Myopia Hunt Club steeds and into the exciting tea at the Bayard Tuckermans' in Hamilton, the Prince smiled his way into Boston society's affections.

AT LUNCHEON.

Twenty guests were at the Appleton luncheon where the royal visitor took refreshment at 1:30.

Then came the "drag hunt" with nine riders taking part in the event on the Myopia course, at one time before.

On the outskirts of the Appleton estate, the Hunt club raised the Tuckerman farm, during the events of the day mailed a small army of avid sportsers, chronicling every move of England's heir apparent.

Once they were shooed off the Tuckerman estate by Miss Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., who carried a heavy burden. Every effort was made to give the Prince free action during his short stay.

Crowds of curious spectators, who raised their voices in a cheer whenever the Prince appeared nearer than a quarter of a mile, filled the roads of Hamilton, eager to be at as close quarters to royalty as human endeavor, the police and Mrs. Tuckerman would allow them.

CHEERED ALL THE WAY

Cheers and plaudits rang in the Prince's ears all the way down from Lowell to Hamilton and the public cheers in the latter town seemed bent on making the acclaim continuous.

The "drag hunt" started at the Plains near the Appleton house and ended at Savin Hills Farm, the Tuckerman estate.

Then a hasty dash up to his suite for freshening up and a change into formal tea clothing, and the Prince was given an ovation by what un-

8 FIREMEN ARE BURNED IN PEABODY

Peabody, Oct. 23.—Eight firemen were burned and twenty-three others overcome by gas during a fire which practically destroyed the plastering building of the American Glue Company plant on Washington street.

The firemen who were burned were:

Owen Aplin, North End street, also cut; serious condition.
Arthur Flynn, Andover street.
Thomas Welch, Low street.
John McDonald, Sewall street.
Timothy B. Foley, Avorn street.
Charles A. Fox, Washington street.
Cornelius J. Duggan, Harris street.
Jeffery O'Connell, Swampscott road.

The blaze started from [illegible] and burned for eight hours, causing a loss estimated at between $30,000 and $50,000.

The eight men were burned when an explosion occurred in a laboratory in the building, sending flaming acid in all directions. They were taken to the Peabody Hospital and all, except Aplin, were allowed to go home.

LA FOLLETTE ON TOP IN POLL OF WEST END

La Follette will deliver his only campaign speech in Massachusetts one week from tonight, in Mechanics Building, Huntington avenue.

John W. Davis, too, has changed his plans and will close his tour with last-hour appeals to the voters of New England and New York State.

Meanwhile, the Presidential Preference Poll conducted by the Boston American in conjunction with other Hearst newspapers throughout the country—and in New England in association with such representative dailies as the Manchester Union, the Keambre Journal, the Bangor Commercial, the Lewiston Journal and the Rutland News—continues to tell a familiar story.

Coolidge.

The suggestion has been made in the course of the week, however, that there might conceivably be an amalgamation of the Davis and the La Follette parties.

If such a thing were possible, and if either side could deliver to the

GOULD SAYS $7,500,000 WENT TO HELP JOHN D.

New York, Oct. 23.—Edwin Gould, testifying today in the $82,000,000 accounting suit of the estate of his father, Jay Gould, admitted that $7,500,000 of the trust money was dumped into the Colorado Fuel & Iron Co. to help John D. Rockefeller in the rehabilitation of that enterprise. Mr. Gould is an executor and trustee of the estate, it was necessary, he admitted, for the Gould estate to sell a number of its best securities.

THOUSANDS CHEER WALES IN LOWELL AND HAMILTON

doubtedly will be Boston's new "cream of society" list, 350 picked guests at the tea.

For a bit f period, the crowd of interested spectators was allowed in the Tuckerman grounds, but was kept well back from the house. Invited guests were required to show cards at the entrance gateway in the courtyard, this procedure being undergone as a safety measure for the Prince.

RIDES SKILFULLY.

During the run preceding the tea, thousands gathered in the dirt auto road running between Hamilton and Ipswich. This road is in the rear of the Tuckerman and Appleton estates and stonewalls, which must be jumped to reach the road, skirt the fields.

The Prince, however, took them in Tom Mix style and a roar of applause went up from the crowd.

The heir apparent's journey to Hamilton from Lowell, where his train from Montreal rolled into the station, that was jammed with cheering thousands, was one long ovation.

At three minutes before the big mogul drawing the train to which Edward's special car was attached belched into the Lowell station.

Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., host to the Prince at Savin Hill Farm, Hamilton, had sped on from Hamilton in a big closed Lincoln car, shining with the gloss of many polishings and with tires and running boards freshly painted in gleaming white.

With him were Charles Sumner Bird, Jr., James W. Appleton and Dudley P. Rogers.

As the crack special train of the Canadian National Railways whined to a halt the Prince emerged from his special car, the "Balmoral," whose every window was a bank of white roses, and grinned in response to the excited cheering that went up.

Then Bayard Tuckerman stepped forward and extended his hand. The Prince came smiling down the steps and took it in a firm grasp. The ceremony was duplicated with Mr. Tuckerman's three companions.

Aides, valets, bat boys and others of the Prince's retinue followed their leader into the cleared space about the station, guarded by twenty-five Lowell policemen in charge of Deputy Superintendent Downey.

The special train which brought Edward in charge of Conductor Allen of White River Junction, Vt., was then pulled on a siding, where it will remain until midnight tonight, when the Prince will proceed from Hamilton and resume his journey to England via New York.

ESCORT ON TRAIN

Eight officials of the Canadian National Railway rode into Lowell with the Prince from Montreal and handed him over to Bayard Tuckerman and Edward F. Gray, British consul-general at Boston.

Captain Lascelles, aide to the Prince, reported that Wales was "in good health, feeling fit again," after his indisposition in Montreal, which cut one day from the New England visit.

The flappers and the young bloods in the thousands ringed around the railroad station cast a keen eye over the Prince's attire as he stood posing for the battery of still camera and movie men.

WEARS A "BOWLER"

The Prince wore a black and white fine-checked Fall topcoat, a natty black "bowler" which is a derby hat in America, a quiet brown plaid suit with the customary creased in a knife edge, the famous Wales blue shirt with matched collar and tan shoes which evidently are a favorite with the heir apparent, as they appeared decidedly comfortable and much worn.

But the footgear was highly polished over the scuff marks and did not detract from the rest of his sartorial splendor.

Patience Knelf, Edward posed smilingly for all the camera men, even hesitating a bit longer for a few more shots, after the Tuckerman party had climbed into the four motors that had journeyed up from Hamilton.

As the Prince settled back into his seat of the big limousine, a Lowell policeman — uniformed as were all the other officers, despite reports that uniforms annoy the Prince — rushed over to the car with an aged but arrow-straight man in tow.

The policeman tapped on the window as the man behind came limping up on a cane and spoke.

BRINGS TEARS TO VET.

"In 1865 I met your grandfather and shook hands with him and chatted," the stranger said. "He was the Prince of Wales and I was a member of the 14th King's Hussars. I wanted to meet you too."

"I am glad to meet you, very glad," declared the Prince, and shook hands heartily.

Tears rolled down the visitor's cheeks as he walked back into the crowd. He is James G. Birtwell of No. 321 Thorndike street, Lowell, and, by his own statement, is the happiest man in America today.

Then the four Hamilton cars, with Motorcycle Officers Kivlan, Julian and Hunter, of the Lowell police in the lead, rolled through the crowded streets of the city out to the State highway to North Tewksbury, through Shawsheen to Topsfield, Middleton and Hamilton.

PASSES CONCORD, N. H.

Speeding from Montreal over the tracks of the Boston & Maine, the special train of the Prince was greeted at every cross road, town and city en route by crowds that craned wistfully as the train rushed by.

From the time the train passed Concord, N. H., at 8 a. m. until the end of the journey was reached at Lowell, there was a constant manifestation that New England was glad to have the members of the royal party as their guests.

Last-minute efforts to secure passage on the White Star liner Olympic has marked the announcement of the Prince's sailing on this ship, on Saturday morning early.

Mr. and Mrs. Tuckerman, alone, will escort the Prince to his private car which will bear him away from the North Shore festivities. Both his coming and departure will be in a town several miles from Hamilton.

Gentlest Mount In Stable Selected for the Prince

It may have been coincidence, or it may have been something else, but Desert Queen, chestnut mare of Mrs. Bayard Tuckerman, is the animal selected for the Prince of Wales to ride in today's Hamilton "drag hunt" is known as the gentlest and most reliable steed in the Tuckerman stables.

Hamilton townsmen smiled when the selection of the mount was made known.

W. C. T. U. SATURDAY PARADE ROUTE ALL TANGLED UP ONCE MORE

WOMEN TO STAND PAT

"Expect Trade Board Will Recall Its Request for a Change in March"

Man proposes and woman disposes.

After the controversy over the W. C. T. U. Saturday afternoon parade had been practically settled, the executive committee today threw a wrench into the works.

The committee, after deliberation in executive session, issued a report which read:

"The Executive Committee of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U. is most happy to learn that the Retail Board of the Boston Chamber of Commerce is in hearty sympathy with our work for the observance of the law, with special emphasis on Referendum 3.

"Therefore, since the wrong impression has been removed we feel assured that the Retai Board will gladly recall their request for a change in our route."

In other words the whole controversy will have to be gone through again.

REPORT IS READ.

The report was read today at the daily session of the convention in First Baptist Church by Mrs. Elizabeth G. Ropes, president of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U.

A report was then read by Dr. N. Louise Rand, chairman of the anti-narcotic committee, who denounced smoking by young women and predicted it would mean the ruin of the race.

After the representatives of the 14 out women who will march, agreed with the highway commissioners and the Chamber of Commerce officials that Arlington and Beacon streets would be as satisfactory for parade purposes as Tremont and Boylston streets, the thoroughfares originally selected, everyone was happy.

"It's a fine way to settle the matter. The women just acted wonderful. They will have the parade and it won't interfere with business on Tremont and Boylston streets," said Daniel Bloomfield, secretary of the Retail Board of Trade, as he rubbed his hands in high good humor and left the conference room in City Hall.

CONVENTION BALKS.

"Great solution of a vexatious problem. Those women are level-headed and they acted fine in agreeing to Arlington and Beacon sts. for their parade," said Street Commissioner John J. O'Callaghan, in a satisfied tone, as he strolled from the meeting with the women's committee.

But the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Street Commissioners forgot that a woman's mind is never definitely made up on any subject.

Returning to the convention hall where the delegates of the W. C. T. U. were awaiting the report of their officers on the parade status, the delegates decided that they would have to discuss the proposed change at greater length.

Instead of ratifying the action of the conference, the delegates voted overwhelmingly not to accept the conference report.

This marks the third year that Jay's store has aided the Children's Hospital. Twenty per cent. of all store sales yesterday, today and tomorrow will be turned over to the hospital trustees for the hospital treasury.

A check for $3,000 was the result of last year's contributed days.

Goods are at their regular prices, none having been marked at any advance.

FIREMEN ESTABLISH FR. LYNCH SCHOLARSHIP

Boston firemen are happy today in the realization of their efforts to do honor to their late friend, the Rev. Dennis J. Lynch, assistant pastor of St. Leo's Church. The sum of $2,869.50 was raised by them and a few friends of the late priest for a scholarship for children of Boston firemen to be known as the Reverend Dennis J. Lynch scholarship.

The amount was more than enough to provide for a first year course at the Boston College High school and will be awarded to the child of a fireman receiving the highest entrance marks.

FIRE THREATENS CONVENT IN MARLBORO

Marlboro, Oct. 23.—Fire destroyed the Campbell block in the heart of the business section, threatened the Convent of the Immaculate Conception and drove tenants of the Brown block into the street clad only in their sleeping garments, today.

The ten Sisters in the convent were aroused from their sleep by the fire in the building only a few feet away from their home. They packed their effects and were ready to move from the building when the fire was gotten under control.

The Brown block, which also adjoined the burning structure, is occupied on the upper floor by tenants who were aroused by fireman. Many of them ran to the street without stopping to don outer clothing of any kind.

BLOCK DESTROYED.

The Marlboro firemen had difficulty in confining the fire to the Campbell block which was destroyed.

The first floor of the block which extends from No. 199 to 201A on Main street was occupied on the first floor by the Marlboro Tailoring Company owned by Jacob Rizes, the Singer Sewing Machine Company, a Chinese laundry and the White Sign Company, owned by James H. and Charles A. White.

The origin of the fire is unknown, but when firemen arrived flames were sweeping through the entire structure.

FIREMAN CUT BY GLASS.

George Gallagher, a member of the fire department, was cut on the left hand by flying glass while fighting the fire. His injuries were dressed and he insisted on returning to duty.

When it was seen that the Campbell building was doomed the firemen turned their attention to the convent and the Brown block and succeeded in saving these structures, although the paint of both was blistered.

The nuns living at the convent are teachers in the Immaculate Conception parochial school.

SANFORD, ME., TOWN HALL FIRE-SWEPT; LOSS $100,000

Sanford, Me., Oct. 23.—Fire from an undetermined cause caused an estimated loss of $100,000 in the town hall today. The blaze started in an aircraft in the police station. As a result of the fire the York County Farm Bureau, the Sanford police court and the National Guard Association are homeless. Two firemen were injured.

Former Shoe Magnate Disposing of Property so He Can Travel, He Explains.

Moultonboro, N. H., Oct. 23. — The $1,500,000 Ossipee Mountain estate of Thomas G. Plant, former Boston shoe manufacturer, is up for sale—and the natives are busily speculating.

One reason for the wave of speculation is that the magnificent country seat, containing 6,300 acres of beautiful forest, meadow and pasture land, fronting for a mile and a half on the North shore of Lake Winnipesaukee, is on the block at an asking price of only $500,000.

Plant declares he is selling "Lucknow" because he wants to travel during the remainder of his life.

PLANT'S STATEMENT.

It is common talk, however, that Plant has other reasons for selling. Clinton Mason, his overseer for years, has quit.

Mr. Plant today would merely say:

"The reason I am selling it is the reason given—a desire to travel."

Twelve years ago, Thomas G. Plant, fresh from a $7,000,000 victory over the United Shoe Machinery Company for infringement of patent rights, came to Moultonboro and planted his beautiful estate on Ossipee Mountain.

The multi-millionaire had just been married a second time, following a divorce secured by his first wife.

Mrs. Caroline Griggs Plant charged that the manufacturer had been intimate with an unnamed co-respondent, but the name of Kitty Hadley, pretty English immigrant and a former waitress at the Plant shoe factory in Jamaica Plain, was mentioned frequently during the trial.

Plant's second bride was the former Miss Dewey, daughter of a Chicago banker. She is still at "Lucknow" with her husband, once a poor laster in a Lynn shoe factory.

HIRED 800 LABORERS.

During the construction of the estate 800 laborers from Boston threatened to strike and something more serious when they believed they were not going to be paid.

Plant asked that the militia be called out, but three level-headed deputy sheriffs quelled the turmoil.

At the boundary of his land, residents assert, he erected a "spite fence" twenty feet high, because Miss Martha Jane Lee, seventy-year-old resident, would not sell her little farm, which he wished to add to his estate.

Grotesque figures were painted on an old barn facing the Lee homestead and the aged woman eventually capitulated and sold her farm.

Then the millionaire tore down a stone wall enclosing a family cemetery on the Lee farm, which so incensed the residents that a committee waited upon him with the result that the wall was rebuilt.

Miss Lee charged that it had been Plant's intention to level the mounds and wipe out the cemetery in which rested the remains of her ancestors.

FURRIER'S WIFE GETS DIVORCE, CHILDREN

A divorce decree was granted today by Judge McCoole, in Suffolk Superior Court, to Mrs. Anna N. Silverman of Dorchester, wife of Lester S. Silverman, prominent Boston furrier, who charged during the divorce hearing that his wife's love cooled because he refused to dye his silver locks.

Lester S. Silverman.

Grounds were given in the decree as cruel and abusive treatment. Mrs. Silverman is given custody of the three children, Adeline, Jason and Ralph, but the furrier is to be allowed to see them at all reasonable times.

For the support of the children Silverman is ordered to pay his wife $25 a week. He is ordered also to pay her $150 for expenses of prosecuting the suit.

The divorce suit was tried in September as the culmination of a series of wars engaged in by the furrier and his "in-laws." Last March, after several stormy sessions at her home, he sued his mother-in-law, Mrs. Rebecca Goldman of Normandy street, for alienation of affections, attaching her property for $25,000.

LOOT TAILOR SHOP NEAR HARVARD SQUARE

Loot amounting to approximately $4,500 was taken by burglars today from the tailoring shop of Burke & Co., No. 2 Dunster street, near Harvard square, Cambridge. The break was discovered when the establishment was opened for business. Entrance was gained by jimmying a rear window on the first floor. Cash amounting to $35 was taken from the second floor and 203 rolls of cloth, valued at $1,000 and four $125 overcoats from the first floor.

CITY LIGHT EMPLOYES' INCOMES ARE TAXABLE

Springfield, Oct. 23.—Under a ruling of the internal revenue department received here by H. W. Hill, division chief deputy, in the case of employes of the Holyoke Gas and Electric Light Company, a municipal department, officers and employes of municipal gas and electric plants are not exempt from federal income taxes. The Holyoke department employs 200 persons and about 6 are said to be liable to the tax dating back to 1923. Chicopee and Westfield operate municipal plants and their employes also seem liable. It is said the same principle may apply to municipal water departments that are self-sustaining, as is that of Springfield.

SLEUTH BEHIND BARS AFTER LARCENY

Roy C. Moreash, Sunday School teacher, occupies a cell in East Cambridge House of Correction today, a year's sentence for larceny ahead of him.

Judge Sturtevant in Somerville Court heard Chief of Police Kendall tell how Roy poured a "$50 tale" into the ears of friend Roy Osborne, who had fallen into the hands of the police.

Moreash, the chief said, was then a part-time liquor spotter and when Osborne was in custody, used his influence with Probation Officer Jones to have Osborne released without arraignment. Jones released Osborne according to practice.

Then Moreash told this story to Osborne:

"Jones got clinched for letting you out. They fined him $100. I borrowed $50 and you must help me out with the other $50."

Osborne went to the Rev. Mr. Woodcock of the Evangelical Church and with his aid raised the $50. Friends of the minister started an investigation which led to Moreash's arrest. He jumped bail and was arrested in Portland.

In his robes, police found his correspondence school diplomas, his shiny "detective" badge, photos of Bay State police chiefs, and an abundance of "dope."

Moreash decided to turn sleuth after serving terms in Concord Reformatory and in the Dorchester Penitentiary, New Brunswick.

PRUNE MARKET SHORT 100,000,000 POUNDS

San Jose, Cal., Oct. 23.—A shortage of approximately 100,000,000 pounds in the world prune market is forecast in a statement by the California Prune and Apricot Growers Association based on production in this State, Oregon, France, Bosnia and Servia. Less than 80,000,000 pounds of the California 1924 crop remain unsold, and Oregon has less than 20,000,000. The combined yield in Europe has fallen to 23,000 tons, considerably less than half of last year. This total of 120,000,000 represents available supply to satisfy the current year's needs. 220,000,000 pounds, as shown by last year's consumption.

Escaped Patient Caught

Worcester, Oct. 23. — James Quinn, fifty years old, escaped Gardner State Hospital patient, was captured and returned to the hospital today.

WARRANTS FOR ASSESSORS DENIED

Francis J. Christianson of Garfield avenue, Revere, who is a non-voter, today sought to obtain warrants for the arrest of three members of the Revere board of assessors charging criminal misconduct in office.

The men named were Clarence E. Crisbee, chairman of the board; John M. Lisot, secretary, and Joseph F. Pittingstt.

Christianson alleged they had used fraudulent methods in overtaxing the property of his father, Christian Christianson, on Garfield avenue.

Clerk Curley of the Chelsea court refused to grant the warrants, declaring there was no evidence of corruption.

PASTOR IS TO SEEK PICK AND SHOVEL JOB

Greek Minister in Salem Says He Must to Pay His Rent

Salem, Oct. 22.—Rev. John Dimitrick, pastor of St. John's Greek Church, would put overalls and jumper over clerical garb and swing pick and shovel as a city laborer for food and lodging money, alleged failure of the church trustees to pay his salary causing critical financial embarrassment to the clergyman.

Rev. Dimitrick has brought suit against the trustees seeking recovery of salary not paid since early June. He claims $50 a month.

Today he said concerning his troubles and dissension among the parishioners:

"Wine and women are at the bottom of it all. There are bootleggers among our trustees. They sold for $28.50 liquor purchased for $17.50 at the time of the presentation at Pea... body of the church play 'Women's Revolution.'

"I will ask the Mayor for a job with the pick and shovel, for I must eat and pay my rent."

MORGAN SORRY FOR MAINE SHOOTING

Man Who Wounded Brookline Dentist's Wife in Jealous Rage Regrets Deed

Portland, Me., Oct. 22.—"My wife is the best little girl in the world, and I am sorry for the trouble I have caused her and the children.

This statement was made by Leroy A. Morgan of Allston, Mass., central figure in the Naples love triangle shooting, just before he went on the operating table at the Maine State Hospital today.

Morgan was shot in the back by Captain Frank G. Wright of the Massachusetts State Police, after the Allston man had opened fire on Mrs. Harriet M. Provan, 35 years old, wife of a Brookline dentist, and Lawrence MacElwan, 33 years old marine engine salesman of Gloucester.

Mrs. Provan, former sweetheart of Morgan, received a slight flesh wound in one arm, and Captain Wright a wound in the hand.

Physicians at the hospital stated that Morgan's wound was not particularly serious and that the bullet could be easily extracted. He will be arraigned in local municipal court tomorrow before Judge Clarence Peabody, charged with assault with intent to murder Mrs. Provan.

Seen by a Boston American representative at the hospital, Morgan said:

"I wish Captain Wright had killed me when he shot me. I was mad with love for Mrs. Provan and had been for the past two years. She returned my affections up to two weeks ago, when I learned that Lawrence MacElwan had stolen her affections."

DIDN'T PLAN TO KILL

"I had no intention of killing either Mrs. Provan or MacElwan. The gun was accidentally discharged. I could have killed the couple easily, as I stood not four feet from them outside the window."

Mrs. Wright, wife of the man who shot Morgan, said the Allston man urged her and her husband to take cyanide of potassium after the shooting. A large quantity of capsules containing this poison was found in Morgan's possession. He denied he intended to commit suicide with them.

Mrs. Provan's husband, Dr. Walter F. Provan, Brookline dentist, furnished the $2000 bail demanded for her appearance before the January session of the Cumberland County Grand Jury. MacElwan's bonds in the same amount were put up by friends from Gloucester. Up to date his wife has not appeared. He is the father of two children, as is Morgan.

That a tragedy did not result from a make-up love affairs of the principals in the farmhouse drama is due entirely to the poor marksmanship of Morgan and Captain Frank G. Wright of the Massachusetts State police, who with his wife was asleep in another part of the farmhouse when Morgan broke in on Mrs. Provan and the Gloucester salesman.

Wright fired at Morgan and he ran from the second-story room where he shot his former sweetheart. The bullet lodged in Morgan's back. The police captain is also shot through the hand, but it is believed that in the darkness and excitement, he shot himself.

Fred Wright.

Morgan, in adding to his story, said:

"Five years ago, when I was running a garage, I met Mrs. Provan. We became infatuated with one another and soon I fell madly in love with her.

SAYS DOCTOR KNEW.

"Of course I neglected my business. Many times I went to Dr. Provan's home while he was absent and spent many hours there with his wife. She seemed to love me the same as I loved her.

"We kept up this relationship for years and Dr. Provan knew what was going on. He knew his wife and I were constantly together.

"Things went on like this until several weeks ago. Then Mrs. Provan met this Gloucester salesman at a party she gave in her home. She became infatuated with the Gloucester man, even as she had, years ago, with me. I tried to get her to give up the other man and I became almost wild with jealousy.

"On Monday when I found that Mrs. Provan had started for her uncle's farmhouse at Naples, ostensibly to spend a week there with Captain Wright of the State police and the captain's wife, I became suspicious.

"I had been to that same farmhouse with Mrs. Provan before. I knew what had likely happened.

'WOLF OF WALL STREET' BLOCKS DIVORCE SUIT

David Lamar Halts It by Denying Wife's Cruelty Charges

Pittsfield, Oct. 23.—David Lamar, the "Wolf of Wall Street," has caused surprise by blocking, temporarily at least, the efforts of his wife, Mrs. Marie Lamar, to get an absolute divorce.

Mrs. Lamar was granted a divorce decree nisi in the Berkshire court. Had Lamar not filed opposition, the absolute decree would have been handed down before now. Lamar petitioned the court not to grant an absolute divorce.

Judge E. T. Slocum has decided that the divorce decree shall not become absolute until further order.

Mrs. Lamar said that she was married to David Lamar at New York, June 3, 1892. She charged that he had been guilty of cruel and abusive treatment toward her, and had failed to provide.

She asked for custody of their only child, Dorothy Lamar, aged fourteen years, and the court granted that.

Mrs. Lamar also secured the right to transfer her property as if she were an unmarried woman, and sold her palatial home on East street, this city, to D. T. Noonan, a woolen manufacturer.

In his appeal Lamar, through former Senator Thomas F. Cassidy, of Pittsburg, denied having ever assaulted his wife or neglected to provide for her.

He said that for more than thirty years they lived together in harmony, and he supported her in luxury and comfort. He said he always gave her large sums of money and, at one time, gave her $150,000.

He alleged that he turned over to Mrs. Lamar real estate valued at $80,000 and gave her valuable jewelry in addition to supporting members of her family.

COOLIDGE STILL NEW ENGLAND POLL LEADER

Only Possible Menace Lies in Merger of Davis and La Follette Votes

ether side every one of its votes, the combined opposition might possibly worry the Republican organization in New Hampshire and most certainly would menace them in Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

The Boston American's own poll in Massachusetts today reaches the fine figure of 21,937 votes.

That ought to be votes enough to show how the political wind is blowing, and, inasmuch as day after day the indications have been in the same direction, the director of the straw ballot and his associates firmly believe that the story indicated by these figures will be the Massachusetts story revealed by the election officers on the night of Tuesday, November 4.

COOLIDGE LEADS.

These are the Massachusetts figures up to date:

Total	21,937
Coolidge	10,381
La Follette	5,983
Davis	5,573

Coolidge leads La Follette..... 4,398
La Follette leads Davis..... 410
Both together top Coolidge by. 1,175

Democrats for Coolidge..... 667
Republicans for Davis..... 1,976
Democrats for La Follette..... 2,850
Republicans for La Follette... 2,314
Others for La Follette..... 1,899

LA FOLLETTE POPULAR.

The 26th day of the poll was another to be added to the Coolidge column. The votes came from nine reporters. The President topped his rivals in every group except one. A veteran newsgatherer, beginning a tour "at large" in Somerset street on Beacon Hill, and concluding his investigation on Chambers street in the West End, brought back 102 votes for La Follette, 46 for Davis and 45 for Coolidge.

A second day was given to Northampton, where a tour of Pleasant, King, Old South, Elm and State streets discovered comparatively few citizens who are disposed to vote against a certain famous former Mayor.

The Bay State figures, as a whole, suggest that the Republican nominees will carry Massachusetts high and dry, but that their vote may not be quite as large as that for Davis and La Follette votes combined.

DAVIS SPEAKS THIS EVENING IN CLEVELAND

Indianapolis, Oct. 23.—With an address scheduled for Cleveland tonight, John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President, was on his way east today, completing the last leg of his two weeks' final campaign drive in the Middle West. In New York on Saturday the final drive of the candidate's campaign will be started.

EDUCATOR AND BISHOPS IN CHILD LABOR DEBATE

Dr. L. H. Murlin, former president of Boston University, will defend the child labor amendment before the monthly meeting of the Lord's Day League at the City Club, Monday noon.

Bishop William Lawrence, Suffragan Bishop Samuel G. Babcock, and Rev. Dr. A. Z. Conrad, pastor of Park Street Church, will speak against the amendment. Bishop Lawrence denies that he owns stock in Southern mills where children are employed.

La Follette Names Aluminum Trust in $1,000 'Defi'

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 23.—"Andrew Mellon's aluminum tariff is sufficient answer for to night. Send check to Salvation Army."

That was the reply of Senator Robert M. La Follette to the offer of the Kansas City Journal to pay $1,000 if the Senator would name "one special privilege that it is your purpose to destroy, if elected."

LA FOLLETTE TO FIGHT WALL ST. COERCION

Coming East to Expose the G. O. P. Intimidation of Voters in Industrial Centres

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 23 (A.P.)—Before carrying his fight for the presidency into Eastern States, Senator La Follette issued this statement here:

"I am going into the East to finish up my fight for the presidency for a number of reasons.

"I know that the West is safe for the Progressive ticket and that if the Progressive Eastern States with large electoral votes are carried by us, we will win the election by the direct vote of the people on November 4.

"I know that if the people of the Eastern states are permitted to render a verdict influenced by their own desires and political convictions, we will carry those Eastern states.

"I know that Wall Street is attempting to coerce the workers of large industrial centers into voting for either Coolidge or Davis under threat of closing down every factory and throwing millions out of work in the event of my election.

"Fourth, important and vital information is being brought to me regarding the huge slush fund which is being raised by Wall Street in the industrial States of the East.

"At the proper time I will disclose this information from the platform or through counsel representing the Progressives before the Borah Committee."

Senator La Follette concluded a two-day campaign in Illinois with an address last night in Peoria, in which he assailed President Coolidge, advocated collection of the foreign debt and outlined the tax revision program he favored.

La Follette Tickets Fifty Cents to $2

When Senator Robert M. La Follette speaks in Boston at Mechanics Hall a week from tonight, his son, Philip, an assistant district attorney in Wisconsin, will accompany the Senator and also speak. Frederic C. Howe, former immigration commissioner of the port of New York, will be the third speaker.

George Fred Williams, noted Boston attorney and former Ambassador to Greece, will be chairman of the meeting.

In accordance with Senator La Follette's wishes, the balconies and all standing room will be free. Twenty-seven hundred reserved seats on the floor are now on sale ranging in price from 50 cents to $2.

The proceeds of the meeting will be added to the campaign fund, half going to the Massachusetts La Follette-Wheeler campaign fund, and the other half going to national headquarters for national expenses.

La Follette, already on his way here, will devote the remainder of the time between now and election to campaigning in the East, as he considers that the West is already won. In addition to Boston, he intends to visit other cities in New England.

GLYNN DENIES FIREMEN IN CAMPAIGN FUND

Fire Commissioner Theodore A. Glynn announced today:

"My attention has been directed to a news item in the papers in effect that the members of the fire department were engaged in raising campaign funds for one of the candidates for public office.

"I have caused an investigation to be made and find that there is absolutely no truth in the story that funds have been raised or are being raised for campaign purposes in the interests of any candidate.

"So far as any member of the fire department making a contribution to the candidacy of any individual that is his personal business and no concern of mine; so far as the question of a collection of a general fund within the department, I should not permit any such work to be undertaken and I am positive that none has been undertaken."

WOMEN'S "FLYING SQUADRON START TOUR

A Democratic "flying squadron," composed of 10 prominent women orators, was to start on a whirlwind tour of the State today to take the platform in the principal cities and towns and speak for Senator Walsh.

Mayor Curley and Democratic candidates for the Legislature and county officers.

In the party are Mrs. Gertrude Hayes O'Leary, Mrs. Gertrude L. Fowler, Mrs. Lillian A. Cook, Miss Elizabeth M. Needham, Mrs. Elizabeth E. Kennedy, Mrs. Carrie F. Sheehan, Miss Anna C. Brobham and Mrs. William J. Desmond.

Speeches in French will be delivered by Miss Mary Renee.

TRIANGULAR DEBATE AT HARVARD UNION

A triangular debate between representatives of the Democratic, Republican and Progressive parties will be held at the Harvard Union in Cambridge at 8 o'clock this evening.

Eliot Wadsworth, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury under President Roosevelt, will uphold the Coolidge side of the debate, and the La Follette group will be supported by Professor Felix Frankfurter of Harvard. The Democrats have not yet selected their representative.

COOLIDGE HAILS 'SERVIS' BY BUSINESS

Initiative and Enterprise Must Be Preserved, He Tells Visiting Group

Washington, Oct. 23.—Preservation of initiative and enterprise is the "primary thing which we have to do in our country," President Coolidge today told the executive committee of the New York Business Men's Republican Association, who called at the White House.

Freedom of initiative and enterprise carries with it, the President said, an obligation upon every business establishment to give "service" as well as goods to consumers.

Declaring the economic system of the government "fundamentally sound," the President criticised those who emphasize "out of all proportion" its abuses. Correction of these abuses, he held, lies in the hands of those administering commerce and industry, and only they, he added, can prevent the necessity of government intervention.

"Already they have made great advances in this direction," he continued. "Their sense of responsibility has made steady growth during the last two score years. We no longer hear the expression of indifferent attitude towards the relation of business to the people.

"The merchants and the manufacturers today are seeking to deliver something besides their goods, and they are delivering it with pride. That new something is the sense of service to the community.

"These are the lines of real progress. To tear down a system under which so much of genuine progress has been accomplished in so short a period, merely because of the minor defects that have not yet been entirely eliminated, would be a policy of destruction.

"We need not fear that the American community will commit itself to such a policy. It is the long expressed genius of the American people to build up, to construct. That genius was never more vigorous, never more intent on exercising itself than now. It will continue to be supreme in our country."

Modesty Is Charming
but health is vital

Growing girls should realize elimination is necessary; constipation dangerous. Mothers, urge use of Dr. Caldwell's Pepsin Syrup

THE world is broadening and there is less excuse for prudery today than ever before. Parents and school teachers are helping by telling their children the fundamental facts of life.

The growing girl, therefore, who neglects the important function of elimination is living in a past age. She should realize that when days go by and there is no passage the general health is impaired, the function is interfered with and fatal may result.

...ers would do well to watch adolescent ...ers for they, more than young boys, are prudish in this regard. Elimination should occur once a day, and if it does not, a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin should be given. You will thus prevent intestinal poisoning and constipation and their train of disorders, such as skin, pimples, lassitude, bad breath, headache and so forth.

Mrs. Jesse Maxey, 106 Third street, Aurora, Ind., and Mrs. Pat McCullough, Tampa, Fla., regularly use Syrup Pepsin in their households, and as a result their families are free from sickness.

It is not without reason that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is today the most widely used liquid laxative in the world, over 10 million bottles being sold annually. It is mild and gentle in action and free from griping, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and pleasant-tasting aromatics, a safe laxative from which opiates and narcotics are entirely absent.

After using Syrup Pepsin you will understand why people discard the harsher physics and cathartics, pills, powders and salt waters. Others, too, no longer give children "candy cathartics," as they contain a coal-tar drug called phenolphthalein, which may cause skin eruptions. They prefer a safe laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, made from plants and vegetables, the prescription of Dr. W. B. Caldwell, who practiced medicine for forty-seven years. Buy a bottle. A dose costs you on an average of less than a cent.

Free Sample Bottle Coupon
There are people who very rightly prefer to try a thing before they buy it. Let them clip this coupon, pin their name and address to it, and send it to the Pepsin Syrup Co., 518 Washington Street, Monticello, Illinois, and a free sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will be sent them prepaid by mail. Do not inclose postage. It is free.

'SOVIETIZING OF CHILDREN' OPPOSED

Catholic Woman Leader Averse to Granting Too Great Power to Congress

Editor, Boston American:

The question is constantly asked, how does this so-called Child Labor Amendment affect the home? The answer is plain enough.

Under the wording of the Amendment, you are turning over to Congress "the power to regulate, limit or prohibit the labor of persons up to the age of eighteen."

This means that Congress can make rules and regulations affecting the labor of every child under eighteen years of age whether he is working for pay or not, whether his occupation is selling newspapers, doing odd chores or whether he is working in the factory, the farm or the home.

If this power of Congress were exercised to its full limit, it would mean that children would be prohibited from any labor whatsoever.

MUST CARE FOR CHILDREN.

If Congress ever chose to go this far, it would necessarily follow that Congress would fix rules setting out the things that the child must not do in the use of his time.

As Miss Grace Abbott, the head of the Children's Labor Bureau, during the House hearings said, "When you undertake to get rid of child labor, then you must make some other provision for the care of those children."

It, therefore, might say to parents "Your child may work, but only after it has been taught the things which we decide are best for him and in the school where we decide to send him, and under teachers whom we have appointed."

There is only one step from this to the nationalization of children and their loss to the home.

It would be the sovietizing of America.

OTHER THINGS INTENDED.

The most eminent advocate of this amendment in these parts, Mr. R. G. Fuller, writes, "the biggest part of the task lies in the direction of better schools" and "in health and educational enterprises not only in a protective way but in a positive and constructive way."

Again, the first demand of the Young Workers' League of America, a Socialist organization and powerful backers of this amendment, is for "the abolition of all wage slavery for all young workers up to eighteen years of age. The young workers must be cared for by the State and treated from an educational point of view until they have attained this age."

Thus it appears that many other vital things than the abolition of child labor are intended under this amendment.

NOT A PROPHET.

The friends of the amendment say that Congress will not go this far in the use of their power. Just what authority they have for saying this I do not know.

Perhaps they have been endowed with a gift of prophecy which I do not claim. Only the future will tell us what Congress will do. I know the present. Why should I trust the unknown future?

It is for those who propose this amendment to prove their case, a thing that it is impossible for them to do—to prove that Congress will not exercise this power to its full limit.

Child labor is a curse which is rapidly being wiped out, but the sovietizing of our children would be a calamity to America and all civilization.

(Signed)
(MRS.) FRANCIS E. SLATTERY,
Pres., League of Catholic Women.

Lovejoy Explains Points on Child Labor

Objection to the child labor amendment and certain doubts surrounding it, voiced by those in the audience, were answered by Owen R. Lovejoy of New York, general secretary of the national child labor committee, when he addressed the regional conference of the League of Women Voters of Middlesex County at the Colonial Club in Cambridge.

"The fifth constitutional amendment guarantees immunity from Congressional tyranny in the passage of laws governing child labor. The rule of reasonableness must prevail," Mr. Lovejoy said. "The fifth and the fourteenth amendments to our Constitution prevent either the Federal government or the State government infringing too far on personal rights.

"The Child Labor amendment is not directed against work and labor for children, but against children being enlarged in harmful kinds to the exclusion of mental and physical development."

TYPIST DENIES EMERY BROKE UP HOME

Former Legion Head, Shot in Office, Is Expected to Recover Promptly

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 23.— Physicians today predicted a speedy recovery for Colonel John G. Emery, former national commander of the American Legion, who was shot by Chadell Simpson. Unless infection sets in, the doctors said, the wound will not prove serious.

Emery was shot after Simpson came to Emery's office and demanded to know whether Mrs. Simpson was there. On learning that she was employed there, Simpson charged Emery with attempting to break up his home. Mrs. Simpson said her husband's assertion was "absurd." Simpson was arraigned today.

WARNS AGAINST TOO MANY U. S. BUREAUS

Centralized Government May Be Overdone, Wadsworth Tells Business Men

A warning against further centralizing the power of government at Washington, was sounded today by Eliot Wadsworth, assistant secretary of the treasury, speaking at the annual meeting of Associated Industries of Massachusetts at the Copley Plaza.

The Federal government, he said, has assumed, among many other responsibilities, the regulation of railroads, water powers, pure food, the prohibition of the uses of narcotics and alcohol.

"Each one," said he, "required an organization centering in a bureau in Washington, with agents covering the country. There are many suggestions now being actively advanced for placing further authority in the hands of the Federal government, all involving additional expense, some a Federal subsidy. It is my belief we are moving too fast. We forget that each new power exercised by the central government means for the people a release of some part of their freedom of action. We overlook the fact that power may not always be used wisely. Only the most urgent necessity, the most imperative national need, warrants the installation of more bureaus in Washington. This country is too large to be standardized from Washington."

Henry Bell, general manager of Lloyd's Bank, Ltd., London, discussed post-war conditions in Europe and endorsed the recommendation of the Dawes plan.

John F. Tinsley, vice-president and general manager of the Crompton & Knowles Loom Works, Worcester, spoke on "Factory Economics." An address on "What the Accounts Ought to Reveal to the Industrial Executive," was made by Charles L. Talbot, comptroller of Lockwood, Greene & Company, Boston.

Forthcoming Chapman-James Wedding at St. Paul's Causes Buzz of Expectancy

By BETTY ALDEN.

I HEAR THAT Miss Olivia James and her fiance, Chanler Armstrong Chapman, have been guests at a delightful house-party given by the William Norton Bullards at "Highwood," their Lenox country home.

These glorious Autumn days see many a jolly gathering at the various estates nestled in the Berkshire Hills, and not the least popular of the Berkshire hosts are the master and mistress of "Highwood," who have been absent from Boston for quite a while.

As for talented Olivia James, the announcement made earlier in the week by her parents, Professor and Mrs. Edward H. James, of their oldest daughter's betrothal to Mr. Chapman, was of considerable interest to the fashionable world both here and in New York.

Naturally, the news is of special interest to Miss Olivia's sister-members of the 1918-20 Sewing Circle, with whom this talented girl made her formal bow to society.

OF ALL THE feminine members of Boston's fashionable world, few have shown more devotion to their artistic interests than Olivia James.

She has been one of the most gifted pupils at the School of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts, where she devoted herself to the designing of stage settings and costumes. It was she who designed the scenery and some of the costumes for "New and Then," the Vincent Club show presented two seasons ago, and she has done some work for the Play-House-on-the-Moors at Gloucester.

A rather delightful thing about Miss James is the trace of a charming French accent in her voice—heritage of her early schooling in France. In fact, all the Jameses have spent much of their time on foreign shores.

THE YOUNG MAN upon whom this interesting Vincent Club member is to bestow her hand and heart is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jay Chapman (Elizabeth Chanler) of New York, a member of the Harvard '24 class.

Another Boston-Gotham alliance! Nowadays, it is once in a blue moon, almost, that a Boston belle chooses as her future life-helpmeet a man of her "home-town."

The wedding of the young people is to take place on December's first Saturday—the sixth—with St. Paul's Cathedral for the setting.

The bride-to-be will have for her attendants her two sisters, Miss Mary James, who made her bow two seasons ago, and who seems inclined to follow in the artistic footsteps of Miss Olivia; and Miss Louisa James, the youngest and namesake of her mother, who was Miss Louisa Cushing.

Louisa James is, I believe, to be presented this season, and in all probability her uncle, Grafton Cushing, will entertain for her as he did when the two older daughters made their debut.

(Photo by Bachrach.)

MISS OLIVIA JAMES

The talented daughter of Professor and Mrs. Edward H. James, will be married December 6 to Chanler A. Chapman of New York. The ceremony will take place in St. Paul's Cathedral.

Society Notes

GORHAM BROOKS of Boston, who is spending the Autumn in Lenox, went grouse and pheasant hunting in the Berkshire woods the first open day of the season on birds.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter, after spending the season at her Beverly Farms estate, is now at Hot Springs, to remain until November 10, when she and Mr. Leiter will reopen their Winter residence in Washington for the season.

Mrs. Elizabeth S. Heard of Boston and Edward Law of Philadelphia, were married on Monday in Washington, at the home of the bride's brother, George S. Silsbee. Mrs. Law is the daughter of Mrs. George S. Silsbee of Beacon street, and the North Shore.

Mrs. and Mrs. Allen Curtis will linger several weeks longer at "Sunfield," their Beverley Farms place, before returning to Boston for the Winter.

Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott was of the group in charge of the tea held the other afternoon at the Art Association in Newport.

George von L. Meyer is sailing this week for Paris with his mother, Mrs. George von L. Meyer. Mr. Meyer, who is making the trip to see his two sisters, Signora Giuseppe Brambilla and Mrs. Christopher Rodgers, will be gone only three weeks. His mother will remain throughout the Winter.

MALDEN SPEAKER URGES DAYLIGHT SAVING VOTES

President Walter Powers of the Daylight-Saving Association told the members of the Malden Chamber of Commerce at a meeting in the Malden Auditorium that daylight-saving is the only practical method by which the great army of indoor workers can gain the benefits of sunlight.

He emphasized that daylight-saving is an established institution of seven years' operation in this State and that no valid reasons have been given for upsetting it.

MILLIONAIRE REMEMBERS EMPLOYES IN WILL

New York, Oct. 23.—An estate of an estimated value of $1,000,000 is disposed of in the will of Henry R. Towne, engineer and manufacturer, former head of the Yale & Towne Manufacturing Company of Stamford, Ct., who died here on October 16, which has been filed for probate.

Provision also is made in the will for the erection of a service building for the benefit of the employes of the Yale & Towne Company. Capital stock of the company to the value of $150,000 is placed in a trust fund for this purpose.

'BEING A BOY' HAS NO THRILL FOR FLAPPER

Brooklyn Runaway Is Home Again and Glad to Resume Her Conventional Garb

New York, Oct. 23 (I.N.S.)—Julia Hannigan, fifteen, Brooklyn school girl, was back in her home today in girl's clothes, convinced that being a boy was not what it is said to be.

While wearing skirts, before she donned her clothes in a cellar, took her brother's and ran away, thus starting one of the New York Police Department's biggest "murder" mysteries. Julia thought the life of a boy was carefree, happy, romance and moon mist. You could do anything she thought, if you were a boy.

VERY MUCH BORED.

But, she admitted today, after having tried it, a boy's existence can be as dull as a girl's. She was so bored on a number of nights during the more than a week that she was hiding in a Brooklyn rooming house, that she went to the Public Library at night for amusement.

One night she lived at the Y. M. C. A. without detection. There she had her first disagreeable taste of boy's life. Some of the men there she said, insisted that she sit in at a card game, where some one gave her a cigarette. Julia watched the other players take a "drag" from time to time at their cigarettes and inhale the smoke.

TRIED TO SMOKE.

She tried that, too, and the room swam before her. Undismayed, she tried it several times more and then got sick. After that she "stalled" through the game with cigarettes that were offered her, never once drawing in the smoke.

"I don't want to be a boy any more," she said.

Now she's waiting for her hair to grow long again, having had it cut, not into a boyish bob, but close all around.

This is how Julia Hannigan, fifteen-year-old Brooklyn flapper, looked all dressed up in her brother's apparel, which she borrowed before she ran away from home. She obtained employment as a cadet, but is willing to admit there is no fun in being a boy.

WIRE COMMUNICATION TO PEKING STOP ABRUPTLY

Shanghai, Oct. 22 (I.N.S.)—Telegraphic communication with Peking was cut off suddenly today. Last advices from the Chinese capital were that General Wu Pei Fu, commanding the Peking forces, was driving back the troops of Chang Tso-Lin in North China, although information from Mukden, Chang's headquarters, was that he was holding positions taken previously.

DIES IN $125,000 FIRE IN INDIANA COLLEGE

Richmond, Ind., Oct. 23.—William Kinney was killed and a second Richmond fireman was seriously injured while fighting a fire of undetermined origin early today which destroyed Lindley Hall, administration and main classroom building of Earlham College. The firemen were caught under falling walls. The loss was placed at $125,000.

TO TEST RIGHT TO SEND OUT NEWS BY RADIO

Chicago Paper to Try to Find Whether Association Can Prevent Distribution

Chicago, Oct. 23 (I.N.S.).—Whether a news gathering association can prevent distribution of news by radio will be determined by a test case in Chicago, it was announced today.

The Associated Press has denied its clients the right to broadcast news, according to the Chicago Tribune. The Chicago Tribune has announced it will take the matter into the courts.

After announcing that it had installed a radio broadcasting station at great expense to give radio fans the news, the Tribune comments on action of the Associated Press, saying:

"Its main appears to take on the color of monopolistic control.

"The newspaper proposes to consult lawyers and seek a ruling in the courts—even to the highest court—on the question of the right of a news gathering organization to disseminate news and prevent the delivery of it by means of radio.

"The Chicago American, not bound by the Associated Press, and having access to the International News Service and Universal Services, announces that it will continue to broadcast by radio important news matter."

IF SKIN IS UGLY OR BREAKS OUT APPLY SULPHUR

Says Mentho-Sulphur Overcomes Trouble Almost Over Night

Just the moment you apply Mentho-Sulphur to an itching, burning or broken out skin, the itching stops and healing begins, says a noted skin specialist. This sulphur preparation, made into a pleasant cold cream, gives such a quick relief, even to fiery eczema, that nothing has ever been found to take its place.

Because of its germ-destroying properties, it quickly subdues the itching, cools the irritation and heals the eczema right up, leaving a clear, smooth skin in place of ugly eruptions, rash, pimples or roughness.

You do not have to wait for improvement. It quickly shows. You can get a little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur at any drug store.

BUILDING IS BLOWN UP IN TONG WAR

Bomb Used in Resumption of Chinese Feud; "Eight More to Die"

Chicago, Oct. 23—Chinese Tong warfare here, at a lull since Monday, when five separate attacks resulted in one death and two serious woundings, was resumed early today when a laundry building in On Leong territory was wrecked by a bomb explosion.

Police squads in Chinatown had been doubled upon reports that one Tong had said "at least eight more must die."

Co-operation with Eastern authorities, detectives started a search for Chin Jack Lam, former On Leong leader, accused of having stirred up ill-feeling between that Tong and the Hip Sings. Lam was arrested here last week, and released after he exhibited a deputy sheriff's star. He was indicted recently in Cleveland for extortion.

Twelve Chinese arrested in a barricaded hotel room were held as suspects in connection with the recent shootings.

SHENANDOAH AGAIN BEATS THE ROCKIES

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 23—The Shenandoah passed over Fort Hancock, Texas, forty-five miles East of El Paso at 9.45 o'clock mountain time.

Aboard the U. S. S. Shenandoah, Oct. 23.—(via Fort Bliss, Tex.).—The last of the Rocky Mountain barriers was passed by the U. S. S. Shenandoah early today, leaving a clear course for the return of the big dirigible to her hangar at Lakehurst, N. J.

Arizona and the worst of the Rockies were left behind when Rodeo, N. M., was reached at 2:30 o'clock. The big ship had groaned and strained as it drove into the eddies whirling over the peaks. The wind currents rushed through the mountain passes like mill races.

The shaft houses of the copper mines of Bisbee, Arizona, were illuminated like a Summer amusement park when the big dirigible unexpectedly found herself in a bowl of the Isle Mountains over the city at 12:34 A. M. Peaks of mountains seemed to tower around it on all sides except the single pass through which it had entered the pocket in the rockies.

The return trip across the Rockies was almost as dramatic as the westward journey. Along the 680 feet of the Shenandoah's glistening body, on either side of the nine inch cat walk, the big gas bags seemed ready to burst against the network of cord as the helium expanded in the rarified altitude.

While the ship sped along between the stars and the lights of the sleeping world below, its radio was talking with unseen ears in Fort Bliss and towns immediately beneath and others thousands of miles away.

GIRL, 27, BALKS OVER WEDDING GROOM, 53

Chalston Spa, N. Y., Oct. 23.—William H. Shippen, 53, a wealthy lumberman of Atlanta, Ga., arrived in this city Tuesday, went through a rehearsal of a wedding with Miss Helena A. Jenkins, 27, and today is on his way back to Atlanta, alone. The wedding scheduled for tonight has been postponed indefinitely. Members of the Jenkins family refused to comment. Mr. Shippen is a widower with five children.

CONDITION OF STOKES REPORTED 'SATISFACTORY'

Baltimore, Oct. 23.—Physicians at Johns Hopkins Hospital today reported the condition of W. E. D. Stokes, New York millionaire, as as satisfactory, following his entering Marburg Ward as a patient yesterday. Friends in New York said Stokes had shown symptoms of a nervous breakdown and that he had come here apparently for a rest.

SAW EDWARD IN U. S., WANTS TO SEE PRINCE

South Hamilton Woman, 82, Recalls the Visit of Wales' Grandfather to Boston

Hamilton, Oct. 23.—One resident of this town who was waiting a glimpse of the Prince of Wales was Mrs. Minerva Davis, 82 years old, who was born under the British flag.

Mrs. Davis, who has been in this country sixty years, distinctly remembers seeing the last Prince of Wales who became Edward VII, when he was in America. She then lived in Winchester.

In spite of an injury that forces her to use a crutch, Mrs. Davis is quite active. She knits and attends all the whist and other social events for which Hamilton is noted.

Mrs. Lester Whipple, a granddaughter of Mrs. Davis, with her husband, will be a guest at the Tuckerman tea to the Prince. Mrs. Tuckerman has promised Mrs. Davis a glimpse of visiting royalty if she can get to the Tuckerman place.

Mrs. Davis is the widow of Nathaniel Davis of Winchester and was born in Londonderry, N. S. She is an American citizen and votes regularly. She lives with a daughter, Mrs. Annie Smith, on Russ street, South Hamilton.

LODGER KILLS HIMSELF IN HAVERHILL ROOM

Haverhill, Oct. 23.—An unidentified man, known on the register as "J. Dubus," was found lying on his bed today shot through the head. Police declare him a suicide. A revolver lay beside him. Dubus registered Wednesday evening at the lodging house of Mrs. Margaret Davis, No. 35 Orchard street. Nothing was heard from him until Mrs. Davis went to his room to awaken him.

U. S. Papers Forged; Russian General, Ordered Arrested, Kills Himself

Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 23 (A.P.)—Discovery of an extensive organization for issuance and sale of bogus passports to the United States resulted in the attempted arrest of General Alexander Krasnow, brother of a minister of the Rumanian cabinet.

The bogus papers used by the American Consul at Cherbourg, France, and it started a number of persons of Russian descent attempting to board a ship for the United States. His report prompted the consul in Bucharest to order the arrest of Katouno and he shot himself.

The scandal is considered certain to result in the resignation of the minister's brother and prosecution of high officials, cabinet members are reported involved.

Smaller ice bills will be the result, say the optimistic press notices of the ice companies.

INSPECT ICE BOXES.

Inspectors will carefully inspect refrigerators for faulty construction leaks, poor insulation and other defects.

They will be instructed—so the ice men say—to inform the consumers as to the proper way to use their ice boxes and how they may cut down their bills.

Textbooks and leaflets prepared by the Household Refrigeration Bureau and worked out under the direction of the experts in household refrigeration employed by the bureau will be distributed.

There will be no charge for this service. It is in line with the policy of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association, and the motto of full weight and dependable service.

A CURE FOR EVERY ILL.

Each inspector will be provided with a letter signed by an officer of the company by which he is employed. Also, by the secretary of the Massachusetts Ice Dealers' Association.

There will be every opportunity for identification and no chance for imposture. The ice dealers request that the housekeepers of Greater Boston discuss their ice problems freely with the inspectors.

The latter will be in constant touch with the association's office and in a position to obtain exact information and make personal recommendations.

PROF. LE BON, BLIND, MAY LOSE HIS HOME

Nerve-Sniping as Gastric Cure Startles Doctors

CHARLES LE BON, BLIND, MAY LOSE HIS HOME

When a farmer's workhorse has given all the years of faithful service that he has to give, the average farmer turns the old fellow out in green pastures in the summer, and the horse has nothing to do but eat, sleep and enjoy his well-earned rest. In winter he is given a comfortable box stall and is provided with plenty of grain and hay. That is the least the farmer can do.

Out at No. 133 Westbourne terrace, Brookline, lives Charles P. Le bon, retired teacher of French in Boston's English High School. He has given his all to Boston's schools. For thirty-five years he taught the boys and girls of Boston, and during most of those years he received a salary that was ridiculously small as salaries go.

TRAGEDY AFTER 35 YEARS.

One day tragedy stepped into his life. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon he had excellent eyesight. An hour later he could not read a single line. His vision had left him without warning. He could see enough to walk about alone, but his days of usefulness were ended. His means of making a living were gone with his vision.

Maseur Lebon retired from his teaching. And after giving the best years of his life, 35 of them, to Boston he was given a pension of $600 a year, $50 a month.

"The last Legislature recognized the worth of Maseur Lebon and an act was passed whereby his pension was to be increased by $1,200, giving him $1,800 a year for life. Maseur smiled and was glad when his friends told him of the action of the Legislature.

"Boston has not forgotten me," he declared.

That was signed last May, but to date Maseur Lebon has not received a single penny of the $50 a month.

HURTS PRIDE TO FIGHT

I seem to be a petty legal question regarding between M. Lebon and the municipal authorities, he says. The city's law department and the retirement board in the person of the Teachers' Pension Fund Trustees, which administers the pension fund, attempted to secure an opinion from the Attorney-General of the State. They were informed that the corporation counsel is the legal decider for the city's affairs. There the matter stands.

And what of Maseur Lebon and his wife?

"I have been notified," declared Maseur Lebon today. "I believe in being patient, but patience will not pay my rent and provide food and clothing for myself and my wife. We cannot live on fifty dollars a month. Who can in these days?

"I feel that this pension is coming to me after I have given my life for Boston. I was so happy when the legislature passed the bill giving me the increase. But, you know it hurts the pride of a sensitive man to have to get out and fight for a pension like this. It makes you feel as though you were fighting for alms.

"I saved some money during the years I worked, but I have had to dip into that in order to live. I hate to see it all go. Still, I feel that the school committee would still unable to agree before long on where the money is to come from, and that I will get it. I hate to have such a fuss made over this thing. If my eyesight had not failed me I would not ask for aid like this. I would work and earn my living. That would please me better. But as it is I have had to turn down large private classes of pupils who have asked me to teach them.

"I cannot read, and it leaves me very lonely at home. All I can do is just sit there and look and look in vain. And when the bills come in and there is only fifty dollars a month to pay—well, if you could only see to work and were in that position you would know how it feels."

WEARS LEGION RIBBON.

The old man, for he is old now, straightened up. He turned his full face down to the little silk ribbon of the decoration of the Legion of Honor, which is in his lapel, and smiled. "I guess everything will be all right, though. It doesn't do any good to complain. I've fought before, I guess I can again. But I hate to fight for a reward for thirty-five years of service."

FIGHTS TO KEEP HIS HOME

DELAYED PENSION MENACES HOME

Unless Professor Lebon gets his increased pension soon, he will have to give up this home. "We cannot live on $50 a month," he says.

NOTRE DAME ELEVEN IS PICKED TO CONQUER PRINCETON

GREEN OUT TO SMEAR HARVARD

By NICK FLATLEY.

A TURBULENT week-end, with plenty of shoals along the coast, looms out in front of the Big Three football teams. The boys who shrieked not so long ago that the autocratic trinity of the gridiron was getting affete haven't a thing to say just now. Yale, Princeton and Harvard have all attached themselves to difficult schedules, with bump succeeding bump at seven-day intervals.

This week end the program is just as tough as it was last.

Harvard plays Dartmouth at the Stadium.

Yale entertains Brown at the Bowl.

Princeton is assaulted by Notre Dame at Tigertown.

Pick a soft spot in that array anywhere, and you're a better man than we are, synthetic.

BY the time Sunday reaches the calendar, some of the Large Three boys will be pondering sadly over the ways of defeat. Unless the dope is all scrambled

Now, Notre Dame should and probably will fix the Tigers. That great western aggregation seems to be at least a ten-point better than anything in sight. The Tigers beat the Navy last week by a miracle finish. But the boys in the Jungle will need something stronger and to the ordinance in order to halt the mad stampede of Knute Rockne's flying backfield.

THE Crimson will inhale an extra large mouthful of the Cambridge horseshoe. Luck of the game was the only thing that kept the Hanover hordes from sweeping Yale Saturday. The boys from the mountains have a great little club, as the ball players put it. There's nothing wrong anywhere with their game.

If they have the chronic Dartmouth ardor along with their other weapons, they'll be hard to down. But Harvard isn't an easy team for anybody this Fall. That's been said so often that it's not worth repeating. The Fishermen have one big advantage over the Indians—in kicking

THE Green can't produce anybody to match Hammond, though for the master of that, the same must be said of most teams. Jack is one of the best punters in the country, and kicking plays an amazingly big part in any close game nowadays. A slashing offensive belied for a long parade, loses its faith in itself when it gets hurled back and has to start all over a few times. The sixty yard punt knocks the pepper out of more athletes than socks on the chin or kicks in the ear ever did. And if Hammond happens to be hurt, Gehrke is almost as good.

TWO such closely matched elevens as Harvard and the Green should be Saturday will play for the bricks. The team with the best punter usually gets them. We have talked with coaches who saw Dartmouth Saturday, who claim the Green will master Harvard. We have also talked with old heroes who watched the Crimson beat Holy Cross, and they are cheering loudly for Harvard. And there you have it.

• • •

YALE will be a favorite to beat the Brown Bear but Yale isn't going to do any pending. The big blue has excited its high spot yet. There's a great team on the even at New Haven, but it will not be properly done until about the time Princeton comes in sight. Ted Jones had almost as much to work with as he did a year ago. But some of his pupils need experience still.

Centre Hands Down Superstition Over Number 11

"Bo" McMillin is only a fond memory at Centre College, but his pet superstition is still carrying on. McMillin, while he was an All-American quarterback at Danville, always wore No. 11 on his uniform, and refused to sleep in any berth but lower 11 when the praying colonels were on trips. When Herbert (Flash) Covington stepped into his shoes as quarterback, he also inherited McMillin's superstition and will carry a big 11 on his back when Centre plays West Virginia at the Polo Grounds Saturday.

HAMMOND KICKING HIS WAY TO FAME

ENTIRE BOSTON COLLEGE LINE SHIFTED

Coach Cavanaugh has shifted his entire Boston College forward line-up, as a result of the injuries received in the Syracuse game.

The end positions are now filled by Al O'Neil, a substitute for four years, and Art McManus.

O'Neil, backed Hagerty's punt Saturday, saving the Eagle outfit a touchdown. He looks like a second Duffey who was in the varsity backfield the last year. McManus played regular end four years ago and is fast and clever. Captain Dennie Duffey will play with Captain Jim Benkowski, the only unchanged lineman. Donahue, two-hundred pound lad, has been shifted to his regular berth at guard, matched with Harry Towle has stepped to center from guard, replacing Larkin in the second team backfield will remain intact.

Practice has become more rigid every day, as the coaches figure Allegheny will no prove the easy victim that was expected when the schedule was prepared.

TUFTS TEAM SHAKEN UP ON EVE OF DEPARTURE

Form strong the Tufts grid squad will leave for Durham tomorrow where New Hampshire will be taken on Saturday.

A general shake-up featured the practice session. Captain Ivan Peabody was shifted to quarterback, with Chris Schroeder replacing him at half. Malin Held, right tackle, and Nate Share left guard, changed places

Brown was beaten out at Chicago, so that doesn't mean the Providence team is weak. The boys in the West play real football, as good as the best. The Bruins have recovered from that explosion, and have their old strength back for the Ell encounter. With everything hitting, Coach Robinson has a fair chance to carry a victory out of the Bowl with him.

THE Dartmouth furor has almost obscured the Boston College-Allegheny game at Braves Field, when the Eagles, still bruised from the Syracuse catastrophe, have quite a fine battle on their hands. According to reports that drift in, the boys from the coal belt have one of those powerful teams that crop up every now and then. The Syracuse licking should have knocked B. C. into the proper trim to show its real power.

CENTER TEAM STARTS FOR NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 23.—Centre College's famous "Praying Colonels," who invade New York for the first time to tackle West Virginia Saturday at the Polo Grounds, left for the metropolis today. The squad will be one of the smallest ever dispatched by a college for a big game, numbering only twenty-five players.

This will be the third trip of a Centre football squad to a big Eastern city. The "Praying Colonels" have already played engagements in Boston and Philadelphia, but New York is virgin territory to them.

West Virginia will bring a squad of about fifty and will arrive here in time to stage a workout at the Polo Grounds Friday. As was the case at the Penn State game in this city last year, the Mountaineer student body will charter a special train and probably bring a band along. Coach C. W. Spears has not revealed where the squad will stop in New York.

HYDE PARK TRIUMPHS; S. BOSTON RUNS WILD

East Boston High's eleven was turned back by a District League game by Hyde Park, 7 to 0, in the feature game of the double-header at Braves Field.

In the other games, South Boston trounced on Charlestown, yet Southie also had the advantage of the breaks of the game to give it its twenty-five points, while the Bunker Hillers were held scoreless.

GENE SARAZEN TO PLAY GOLF UNDER SEARCHLIGHT

New York, Oct. 23.—Golf by night will be introduced to the sporting world next Monday night at the Bedarcliffe Lodge golf links when Gene Sarazen, the champion, will give an exhibition while a searchlight of 1,000,000 candle power, mounted on the roof of the lodge, lights up the Pocantico Hills and surrounding country for a vast distance.

Brown Rips Up Line

Providence, R. I., Oct. 23.—Coach Ed Robinson's somewhat patched up Brown varsity succeeded in putting across at least three touchdowns in the long scrimmage session at Andrews Field.

EPINARD OWNER AND JOCKEY MAKE UP

By GENE FOWLER.

New York, Oct. 23 (Universal)—Pierre Wertheimer, owner of Epinard and Jockey Everett Haynes have made up. Before sailing on the S. S. Paris, M. Wertheimer let it be known that he no longer holds Haynes responsible for Epinard's first three American losses. Haynes it was added, will continue to wear the Wertheimer saddle drapers.

Jockey Clarence Kummer, bringing Edmund in fifth at Laurel didn't impress the French sportsman, despite the fact that an injury to Epinard's near forefoot was the contributory cause of his defeat.

M. Wertheimer plans to dazzle another Epinard. He will be content to wait long for this hoped for result, it was said, possibly holding off until he learns what sort of sons the great French horse will give to the French turf.

If Earl Sande's injuries do not prove halting, he may receive an attractive offer from M. Wertheimer to ride for his stable abroad. That is a tip that comes to us, and it may be a sound one.

TERRIERS WORK AFTER DARK FOR ARMY TILT

In preparation for the classy grid clash till with the Army at W. Point on Saturday, Coach Wm. of the Boston University Terriers football squad put his whole squad through a hard scrimmage session at the Ray State road field.

The practice lasted well after darkness, as the field is now supplied with electric lights which transform darkness into daylight. The first team continued its work of the day before by holding the second team scoreless and scoring four touchdowns besides.

THREE SOPHS IN CRIMSON VS. GREEN

Harvard is expected to use three sophomores in the line against Dartmouth Saturday. They are Bayard Kilgour, Clement Coady and Leo Daley.

Kilgour has supplanted Charles Bradford at left guard. Coady has stepped up into a first string tackle job. Daley, captain of last year's freshmen, will probably start at either guard or tackle.

The coaches are worrying about the condition of Captain Greenough and Jack Ada. Both are in uniform daily, but neither has been able to scrimmage.

Leonard Robb has clinched a regular end job. His aggressiveness, hard tackling and speed will be of assistance to the Crimson Saturday. Phil Chase is holding down the other wing assignment.

Spalding and Cheek at quarter, Miller, Hammond, halfbacks and Geckler, fullback, continue to be the backfield.

He nie Dunker, now out of the infirmary nearly a week, is steadily recovering from his weakness and one of weight incurred by diphtheria. He hopes to play against Princeton.

Arthur Rogers and Adolph Samek, will be unable to play in the Dartmouth game it is not likely that Metz one will pay, but he can be pressed into service in an emergency.

Dartmouth Goes Without Single Scrimmages

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 23.—Dartmouth faces Harvard Saturday without having had one bit of scrimmage since the Yale game. This policy was adopted by Coach Hawley following the discovery that the Ell scrap had left its marks on every one of his men.

Though none were seriously injured, each of the 24 men who played for Dartmouth came out of the game with severe bruises, game legs or bad shoulders. Larry Leavitt, the Wellesley, Mass., boy who played such a savage game as defensive quarter, has felt bad ever since Ohio State. Neihl, the lineman who played the most spectacular game on the field still limps. Nate Parker, right tackle, has a bad foot.

Yale Tramples Fresh

New Haven, Ct., Oct. 23.—Yale's scrimmage preparation for the Brown game reached its height when the regulars battled with the freshmen in a routine practice games, in which the varsity attack managed to penetrate the 1926 line for two touchdowns.

LABRIOLA AND BAILEY FOR BIG MAT BOUT AT GRAND OPERA

By JACK CONWAY

THERE will be a couple of tons of wrestling stars in action at the Grand Opera House tonight. Interest, very naturally, is centered on the finish battle between Leone Labriola, Italian heavyweight, and Farmer Bailey of Brattleboro. These huskies have about the same displacement as a modern dreadnaught. As they are fast for big fellows, they are expected to produce plenty of action.

Labriola is the most popular Italian wrestler to show in this country since George Calza was at the crest of his wave of popularity. He is six feet tall and scales 240 pounds. He has mastered many of the fine points of the mat game under the coaching of Jack Albright and has hopes of reaching the top of his wrestling division.

Bailey won eighteen straight bouts in the early part of last season. He has had more mat experience than Labriola. He is also equally as large and figures he will pin the Italian's shoulders to the mat.

COUNT ZARRYNOFF will oppose Jim Gentwell, Lithuanian grappler, in another finish contest. Gentwell has a remarkable build and will give the honorable Count a very busy evening.

The opening bout will find Jack Albright pitted against Arthur Davis in a one fall match. Davis was formerly instructor of wrestling at Tufts College and 175 pound champion of New England.

Professor Barlanka has been selected to referee tonight's bouts.

PANCHO VILLA, world's fly weight champion, sails for Manila today from the Pacific Coast. Villa is under a long suspension in New York, and those States which have a working agreement with the New York Commission, for failure to go through with his match with Frankie Genaro, American flyweight champion. While in Philippines, Villa will tackle several flyweights and bantamweights of the set-up variety. By the time the outdoor season opens in this country Villa will start back for this country. He will then mingle with Genaro in an outdoor boxing show.

JACK (TWIN) SULLIVAN, one of the world's leading boxers eighteen years ago, dons the padded gloves each day and boxes three rounds with Jack Sharkey, Roxbury heavyweight, at Martin Flaherty's training camp in Wamesit. Sullivan is still in splendid physical condition and carries Sharkey along at a lively clip. Boxing with the veteran Cambridge warrior, Sharkey is sure to master many "inside" twists about the rhetic racket. The Roxbury heavyweight is certain to be a much improved boxer in his next start. Martin Flaherty, who boxed with George Dixon, is also assisting in polishing off the rough spots in Sharkey's work.

THIS writer has received numerous queries from fans who have desired our opinion as to the ring possibilities of Jim Maloney, South Boston heavyweight. We have seen Maloney in most of his bouts, but were particularly impressed the way he battled against Joe Stecsel at Jersey City. Maloney proved in that contest that he does not know what stage fright means. He was boxing away from home before more than 50,000 persons. He was also pitted against an opponent whom most experts figured would beat him. Despite these hand caps, the South Boston youth went in and won.

The Gardner and McCann bouts proved that Maloney packs a ponderous punch. Any heavyweight with a sock like Maloney is able to reach the pugilistic height. In the case of all heavyweights though, one should hesitate before proclaiming them a coming heavyweight champion. A hefty punch to the right spot will knock over the ring horses of any of our brave young future Dempseys.

MALONEY'S BOUT WITH DOWNEY IS POSTPONED

The Joe Downey-Jim Maloney match, scheduled to take place tomorrow night in the Arena, has been postponed. Downey asked for the postponement, as he didn't have time to get into condition. He was not notified by his manager until Sunday night and notified the club that he would be unable to be in any kind of shape for such a tough customer as Maloney. The Faneuil A. A. will stage the fight early in November.

QUINCY YACHTSMEN GUEST OF CARL SNOW

More than fifty yachtsmen gathered at the Quincy Yacht Club as guests of Carl Snow at his annual coot supper. Carl took a party of friends to the Cape in his boat, coot shooting and returned with a bag well over a hundred. They reported the birds fairly plentiful.

MEEHAN HAS FAST AND MIGHTY ELEVEN AT SYRACUSE

BIG THREE LAURELS SHADED

By HERBERT REED
("Right Wing")

Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service.

While a great deal of attention has been centered for the time being on the ability of the old "Big Three" to squeeze through the October tests there are other teams that have been turning on fast and furious football in the Eastern section and have several real stars in process of development.

Syracuse is a fair example.

This institution labors under the disadvantage of being located in a densely populated and thoroughly citified football section.

The followers of the Orange want victories—a process on of them. Any time "Chick" Meehan loses a game, no matter what the date or the calibre of the opposing eleven, there is a gathering of the anvils in the University Club and elsewhere about town, and the burden of the song is: "We want another coach."

So far this season, however, Meehan has been going at the pace of whirling leaves down a gusty street. He has put together a team of great power and restored power. he had veterans to work with, but there were certain places which had to be patched up just the same.

How well this patching has been done may be gathered from the early scores against strong opposition, not ably the workmanlike triumph over the strong an eleven as Boston College. Equipped with a fine line and excellent backs.

STRONG TACKLE THRUST.

Syracuse has been able to open up the attack with even greater freedom than formerly, while still clinging to one of the strongest tackle smashes in the East.

This tackle thrust is especially formidable, since it is put over two of the smartest tackles to be found anywhere, Waldorf and Stanonis.

Sometimes these two are twinned upon the long side of the unbalanced line, but frequently Waldorf is left alone on the short side, the play going over on the long side, Starobin is the only man left on the short side tackle.

Even men of the keenest followers of the game realize that there are "long side" specialists and "short side" specialists, especially in the end and tackle positions.

Nobe has taken McHale's place on the unbalanced—most important in the Syracuse system—and Fivaz has settled into another of those super-smooth ends, developed over passing centres, for which Syracuse has long been famous.

TRAINING FOR SIMMONS.

Simmons has developed into an ingenious if steady quarterback, with more fire than he has shown in any previous season. And McBride, Foley and Bowman make up a backfield that few could criticize. Meehan has developed a very hard ground game, one that puts the pressure on at the start and keeps it on throughout.

If he gives Bowman enough room to give that spanking wonder every chance to get up speed when he crosses the line of scrimmage, which is probably the programme, there is little left to ask.

If Syracuse continues to move along at the present gait, there is every prospect that it will go to New York in November an unbeaten eleven and master of every branch of the most modern football.

YANKEE STADIUM ENGAGES McCARTHY

New York, Oct. 23—The Yankee Stadium is going in for football on a greater scale next season. The management has engaged Ray McCarthy, former Leigh athlete, as director, and he proposes to bring here some of the biggest games in the college calendar.

McCarthy has a wide acquaintance among the football coaches and has been a football writer. It was McCarthy who first called the attention of Easterners to the coaching genius of Knut Rockne of Notre Dame. The new football director is a brother of Bill McCarthy, New York University baseball, football and basketball coach, who was a four letter man at Leigh.

LAFAYETTE AND W. & J. TEAMS ON WAY TO N. Y.

New York, Oct. 23—The Washington & Jefferson football squad, numbering thirty-five players in charge of Coach Dave Morrow, have left home for their annual battle with Lafayette at Yankee stadium Saturday. The team will have a final signal drill at the stadium tomorrow afternoon. The Lafayette eleven is also due here Friday morning and plans have been made for Coach McCracken's pupils to work out at the stadium if the Lafayette mentor desires.

W. Va. Player Breaks Leg

Morgantown, W. Va., Oct. 23.—Joseph Rangely of Bluefield, W. Va., sophomore tackle on the West Virginia University football squad, sustained a broken leg in the closing minutes of a varsity-freshman scrimmage. Rangely is the second member of the Mountaineer squad to break a leg. Howard, veteran tackle being hurt in the opening game.

Peabody to Open New Stadium in Game Against Marblehead

By FRED C. LANE

The one big day Peabody fans have awaited for several years is at hand. On Saturday the new Peabody Stadium, built at a cost of $30,000, will be dedicated. The usual ceremonies that go with an affair of this kind have been planned, and to top off the program the big game on the Peabody High football schedule will be played.

Capt. Boyle.

Eddie Anderson.

Marblehead High is the guest of the Peabody team, and a royal battle between the two schools is expected. Though feeling between these two schools has been of a friendly nature for many years, the battle waged between the school elevens promises to stand out as the best in the section.

Peabody has yet to be defeated. They have the North Shore League pennant all sewed up. Marblehead started out with a winning club, but encountered their first reverse over at Salem two weeks ago. They have fully recovered from that setback and are ready for the battle of their young lives.

The Tanners will be without the services of Ralph McCarthy of the backfield and George Morrise, lineman. Both players were injured in the Lynn Classical game. The injury to McCarthy will prevent his playing football for the remainder of the season.

The loss of these two players will handicap the performance of the team to a degree, yet Coach Brawley feels his lads, with the assistance of substitutes, will put his team out front.

John Boyle, brother of Captain Jim Boyle, who covered himself withglory at the Lynn game, will take his place in the line. This youngster has all the earmarks of a brilliant performer with more experience.

Before the game gets under way the captains of both teams will raise a new American flag, also the pennant won by Peabody last year on the flag pole, a gift of Mrs. Mary Bresnahan in memory of her daughter, Catherine Bresnahan, of the 1921 class and former cheer leader at the school.

He boxed two three-minute rounds each against Sid Bernard, Brooklyn lightweight; Joe Lewis, a middleweight, and Rudy Martina.

Noted Speakers in Campaign to Combat Misleading Propaganda

"Give them the truth in simple language and hit hard."

That was the advice given to a small army of prominent speakers who left from the front of the State House today in the "Children's Caravan" in a tour of the State, to combat misleading propaganda circulated by foes of the Child Labor Amendment.

Dr. Samuel A. Eliot, son of Dr Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, and Owen R. Lovejoy, the latter of the National Child Labor Committee of Massachusetts, wished the crusaders "Godspeed."

The caravan, arranged by various labor, church and civic forces in the State, had for its first days itinerary Lynn, Haverhill, Lowell and Lawrence.

Among the slogans displayed were: "We want our children's votes"; "We are not child labor"; "Many states now prohibit labor in dangerous trades up to eighteen or twenty-one years of age. That is what the amendment will do here in Massachusetts."

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, streaked or gray. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store all ready for use. This is the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain that youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

NORA LEE

A Story of Flaming Youth

Heart and Soul of 1924 Flapper Laid Bare in Best Story by Author of "Chickie"

START THE STORY HERE TODAY

Margaret Meadows married Will Lee at seventeen. His dissolute habits soon made her miserable. The night he raised his hand to his two-year old child in a drunken rage she slipped from his home with her baby. Margaret supported her daughter by teaching school in several villages, finally settling in Fairdale, where she met Andrew and they fell in love. But he was tied to an invalid wife and Margaret refused to let him leave her. Then she taught school until her health gave out. Andrew gave them a home of their own. Nora at 17 fell in love with Dane Herrick. Connie gives a lively picnic.

NOW CONTINUE THE STORY

By ELENORE MEHERIN

BROWNIE MILLS rested her head against Bert Adams' shoulder. She said darlingly: "I'll tell you what Connie thinks of love and the last hour on earth—"

[illegible] heart. That anyone could eat when life had joys like this!

It was half-past 10 when they started home. The three big machines sped like winged arrows down the road; the little car was left behind them.

Branches fell from the trees. The [illegible] pressed close behind them. Then [illegible] moon rose palely in a sea of gold. They seemed passing down a [illegible] trail into portals [illegible] with [illegible] light.

[illegible] with a bewildering shock [illegible]

Half an hour later it was still motionless. He came to her with a troubled, pleading look: "I don't know what to do, Nora Lee. I filled her up this morning. There's not a drop of gas. There must be a leak—"

"Won't we get some? My mother will die worrying."

They remembered a garage a mile back. They walked toward it. The trees were so thick they could scarcely see each other's face. It was midnight when they reached the garage. It was closed. There was no way to enter it.

Dane said: "We've got to wait [illegible] morning. There's nothing else to do."

[illegible] at the stars, clear [illegible] cocktails. You'd [illegible] better you were glad I [illegible] Am I right, [illegible] Dane?"

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

SEVERAL years ago, in the Alpine City of Berne, there lived a surgeon, a certain Dr. Rollier.

Dr. Mahoney.

A beloved member of his household developed a couch with fever. She began to lose appetite and flesh. A diagnosis of tuberculosis was made and confirmed.

Dr. Rollier took his patient up to the village of Leysin, near St. Moritz, where, at a high altitude the air was known to be purer than at Berne. Here, in an outdoor life the patient began to improve.

A study of this case prompted Dr. Rollier to look upon light as the more essential factor in the improvement.

With the zeal of an enthusiastic scientist, an enthusiasm that always finds a humanitarian expression, Dr. Rollier sent back to Berne for a number of poor, under-nourished and pre-tubercular children. Some of these children had advanced tuberculosis of the bones, involving the joints.

Dr. Rollier took the clothing from these children and let them run in the air practically naked. Those that were unable to run were put unclothed upon beds, which were kept in the open air. The improvement in every case was remarkable.

This was the beginning point of what has grown into the so-called "light cure," otherwise "heliotherapy." It is finding a wide range of application in the treatment not only of tuberculosis, but of many other diseases of general nutrition.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

Am 63 years of age and have been troubled with my knees. The pain is dreadful.

M. F. W., New Bedford.

Suggest that you consult an orthopedist and ask him for advice.

I got a little pimple on my left arm last February. Finally, I got it on both arms and face. It goes away for a time and then comes back.

M. G., Woonsocket.

From the meagre description of the "pimples" which you gave, it seems to me that you are suffering from a form of acne. Would advise you to see your family physician or go to a skin clinic.

FINANCE

By B. C. Forbes

This year the United States has subscribed for fifty-seven foreign loans, totaling $963,500,145, figures compiled for this column show.

The grand total for the year will probably exceed a billion-and-a-quarter, and may reach even a billion-and-a-half.

* * *

The total for September and October already has exceeded $461,000,000 and will unquestionably pass half-a-billion dollars before the current month ends.

The largest foreign loan floated this year was the $150,000,000 Japanese government issue, in March. Next in size comes the recently-offered $110,000,000 German government loan. Both were tremendously oversubscribed.

The Canadian government's $90,000,000 issue, last month, takes third place. Canada and Canadians have been very heavy borrowers in the United States this year. In addition to the $90,000,000 issue, there have been others of $50,000,000, $22,000,000, two of $20,000,000, $10,000,000, $9,375,000, $6,000,000 and others of smaller amounts.

Argentine also has drawn much capital from our country. The government borrowed $50,000,000 in February, $20,000,000 in March, $10,000,000 in July, and $20,000,000 in September.

Among the other notable foreign loans floated have been $60,000,000 for the Netherlands government, $30,000,000 for the Swiss government, $20,000,000 for one and $15,000,000 for another French city, $12,000,000 for Finland, $30,000,000 for the government of Belgium, $25,000,000 for the Norwegian government, $7,000,000 for the government of Peru, and loans for various European cities.

The extent of the foreign borrowing here can be seen by glancing at this table:

MONTH	NUMBER OF LOANS	TOTAL
January	4	$88,900,000
February	4	58,400,000
March	7	180,000,000
April	4	72,500,000
May	5	77,500,000
June	9	27,274,145
July	8	22,000,000
August	15	284,834,000
September	13	218,957,000

SOUTHERN MILL ADVANTAGES TEMPORARY

By FRANK H. MELOON, Financial Editor.

Are Southern mill advantages over those of New England only temporary?

In his booklet, "New England's Industrial Future," Orra L. Stone, general manager, Associated Industries of Massachusetts, says in part:

"There are farseeing cotton textile manufacturers, who have carefully canvassed the Southern situation, with a view to locating branch plants there, who are convinced that most of the Southern advantages are but temporary. They argue that there is a limit to the supply of native white labor, that the day is fast coming when it will be necessary to import textile workers from other sections; that with their advent the labor unions may be expected to direct their efforts towards a stronger foothold in the South and that we shall fare here the same the world over the politicians of that section will succumb, as their Northern brethren have done, to the many temptations that have been set before legislators in New England.

"Many Northern manufacturers predict that in ten years there will be a leveling-up process in the South and a leveling-down process in the North, the result of which will eliminate the present advantage in favor of the Southern competitor.

"Actual moving of 100,000 spindles now and then from the North to the South, where owners think they have a temporary advantage, will not be noticed in the long run. If it serves to focus attention on the present situation and helps to bring about corrective measures, the major portion of the industry will be kept in New England."

At the Industrial Relations Conference of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts, Charles Bullard of the Merchants National Bank of Boston said in part: "Thrift is the root of progress and prosperity—individual, corporate, national. For it is the transplanting of yesterday into tomorrow—the tilling and the sowing of the seed.

"The initial need is an understanding of thrift—especially what it is not: It is not parsimony, miserliness, niggardliness, hoarding. A nation of misers, burying their hoards, is not the goal; such a world would soon starve. It is thriftfully using in future out of a judicious saving, after prudent living, in the present.

"The cold statistics are mercilessly clear on our collective average failure. For example, to pursue on the first named, dendsure point—old age! Only three of every 100 Americans are independent at 65; nearly all might be. The probate court records show only three out of every 100 men leaving at death $10,000 or more; only 15 leaving between $2000 and $10,000; 82 leaving no income-producing estate. Only 18 out of every 100 widows are left 'comfortable'; 47 of them must go to work; the other 35, on the average, are left practically destitute and dependent on charity."

President Rea of Pennsylvania Railroad has taken strong exception to consolidation plans for eastern railroads as arranged by*New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio and the new Van Sweringen system.

In brief filed with Interstate Commerce Commission he charges that heads of other railroads, entering the groupings, have failed to take into account certain established rights of Pennsylvania. He says that the Pennsylvania is very unfavorable position as compared with the other great systems.

This brief may be the opening gun in a war between the great railroad systems of the East for control of certain of the smaller lines. One thing President Rea asks for as part of a fair deal on the groupings is that the Lehigh & New England as an additional bridge route to connect with New England railroads.

OILS AND RAIL SHARES LEAD IN UPSWING

Oils and the rail shares led in the renewed upswing on the New York Stock Exchange. The oils were unusually active and buoyant, reflecting better demand reported for crude oil.

Tulsa reports quoting Pres. Teagle of Standard Oil of New Jersey as saying he does not fear any ill effects from new oil production was looked upon as highly bullish on oil issues. Mr. Teagle's statement was accompanied by American Petroleum Institute's figures showing further reduction of 12,650 barrels daily in oil production for the week ended Oct. 18, being the fifth week of successive declines.

The morning market was a two-sided affair, with the major activity in the downward side.

SUGARS AT LOWS.

Reports of an excess supply of sugar in certain European countries contributed to the further weakness of sugar shares, American Sugar Refining touching a new low, and American Beet Sugar duplicating its form for the year.

The break in American Woolen, which was extended to over three points, was based on rumors that the company would be forced to take a big loss in the readjustment of inventories.

The general list tended downward after the first batch of buying orders had been absorbed, but steadied later when active accumulation sent Lehigh Valley up 1¾ to 64¾, and a renewed demand appeared for the petroleum shares.

Kansas City Southern rallied two points in reflection of its September earnings report.

LOSSES RULE LOCALLY

In trading on the Boston Stock Exchange, Island Creek Coal sold up a point. Other changes were fractional, with declines ruling in the early afternoon.

The increases in brokerage commissions on stock recommended by governors of the New York Stock Exchange will be considered by the committee on commissions of the Boston Stock Exchange the first of next week. Local Exchange authorities have spent considerable time reviewing this subject in recent weeks and there is some opinion that it would work to the advantage of Boston to maintain present commission rates.

COMMISSIONS ON SALES OF STOCKS UP

Governing committee of New York Stock Exchange adopted a resolution recommending higher commissions on stock transactions. New scale is to be voted upon and adopted within week. In effect, commissions will be raised on stock selling at $50 a share and over.

New scale of minimum commissions as recommended follows:

On stocks selling below $10 a share, 7½ cents per share; on stocks selling at $10 and above, but under $25 under $50, 15 cents per share; on stocks selling at $25 and above, but under $5$$0, 15 cents per share; on stocks selling at $50 a share and above, but under $75 a share, 17½ cents per share; on stocks selling at $75 a share and above, but under $100 a share, 20 cents per share; on stocks selling at $100 a share and above, but under $200 a share, 25 cents per share; on stocks selling at $200 a share and over, 25 cents a share for the first $200 in price and 5 cents a share additional for each $50 increase in price or fraction thereof.

Minimum commission on an individual transaction on stock shall not be less than $1. This shall not apply where the amount involved is less than $15.

Commissions now prevailing are $7.50 a hundred shares for stocks selling below $10; $12.15 for stocks between $10 and $125, and $20 for stocks over $125 a share.

BOSTON 'SOLD' ON CHICKIE APRONS

Old Fans Return for More for Women Relatives and Friends

Boston is "sold" on Chickie Aprons, to use an expression popular with salesmen.

The pretty and practical rubber teaspoons are growing in popularity daily. Not only are new fans being discovered, but these who were among the first to obtain them are returning for more for their women relatives and friends.

One of the advantages of the Chickie Apron is that the pockets and ruffled edges are removable. The flat and not particularly pretty edges are of course detachable which have the edgings cemented on, is thus avoided, and the aprons won't spoil if they are washed in warm water.

The aprons may be obtained at the Boston American office in Winthrop square, or at any of the following district depots:

Ever Call a Messenger After 10 P. M.?

You Learned That the Laws of Our Own Massachusetts PROHIBIT THE EMPLOYMENT OF PERSONS UNDER TWENTY-ONE, Under Certain Conditions

The gentlemen who have been sent out on the road and the orators who take to the air every evening, for the purpose of killing the Child Labor Amendment in Massachusetts, have succeded in worrying many honest folk by pointing to the age limit of 18.

"Calling a grown boy or a young woman of 18 a CHILD," they cry, "telling THEM they are not to work! Did anybody ever hear the like? Are YOU going to stand for that?"

And of course you are NOT going to stand for it—and nobody urges you to.

What are the facts?

First, let us look again at the language of the Amendment, itself:

"Section 1—The Congress shall have power to limit, regulate and prohibit the labor of persons under 18 years of age."

Persons UNDER 18, it says.

"Yes, but prohibit," the propagandists urge you again, "PROHIBIT, mind you. Ugly word, that. You CAN'T stand for THAT!"

But we DO stand for it.

We STAND for it and we HAVE stood for it for years, right here in this Massachusetts of ours.

"Not for PROHIBITION of child labor?"

In a great many occupations, yes, for prohibition.

"But not for an age limit of 18?"

No—FOR AN AGE LIMIT OF 21.

When you have an idle hour, step into the office of some lawyer friend of yours and ask HIM about it.

Borrow his books of the General Laws. See what OUR OWN STATE has to say about age limit and prohibition of child labor.

Have you ever called for a telegraph messenger in Boston after 10 o'clock at night?

If you are not accustomed to telegrams at night, it probably was a surprise to see a messenger "boy" as old as yourself.

That's the law, of Massachusetts.

The LAW says no person UNDER THE AGE OF 21 can be employed as a messenger by telegraph, telephone or messenger company in Massachusetts between the hours of 10 p. m. and 5 a. m.

The law of Massachusetts says, again, that children UNDER 18 are prohibited from employment in a long list of occupations regarded as dangerous or injurious.

They must not be employed about blast furnaces. You cannot legally put them to work oiling hazardous machinery in motion. They must not be employed as operators of polishing or buffing wheels. They are not to be given work where dangerous explosives are manufactured or compounded.

Massachusetts girls UNDER 18 are prohibited from work in certain trades.

The Massachusetts law establishes maximum hours of labor, for boys from 16 to 18 years of age and for GIRLS FROM 16 TO 21.

In any occupation in which the majority of employes are minors (persons under 21) the Massachusetts Minimum Wage Commission may fix minimum wages for them.

No person UNDER 21, in this same Massachusetts of ours, can be legally employed in a manufacturing or mercantile establishment until he first has obtained a certificate for employment. If this certificate does not show that he has met the requirements for the completion of the sixth grade, he must attend evening school.

So, we see, there isn't anything new in an age limit of 18, or in prohibiting the employment of minors in certain hazardous occupations.

These are MASSACHUSETTS laws, and what the friends of American youth want, what the American Federation of Labor, the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, the National League of Women Voters, the Women's Trade Union League and twenty other great nation-wide organizations desire, is that ALL the States may be brought forward to the Massachusetts standard.

Do you see anything anarchistic in that proposal? Find the mark of Moscow on it, anywhere?

Neither did the Federal Congress.

The House of Representatives at Washington listened to the spokesmen of these and kindred organizations, heard the opposition at great length, and voted 297 to 69 to submit the Child Labor Amendment to the Legislatures of the forty-eight States.

The Senate of the United States heard them and voted 61 to 23, in favor of submission.

The Congress, in other words, is on record, 358 to 92 IN FAVOR of the proposed Amendment.

And yet we have the spectacle of men running wild-eyed around Massachusetts, frothing at the mouth and crying, "Bolshevik!" "communism!" "nationalization of the children!"

Some of these men, it may be, are themselves the victims of false and wicked propaganda.

Others of them believe in the factory-ization of the children.

But not THEIR children.

They Can Stop Him

(By Ratifying the Child Labor Amendment)

MRS. SOLOMON SAYS---

BY HELEN ROWLAND

MY daughter, in the Land of Tomorrow, surely, surely, surely, every woman will find her Heaven!

Yes, surely, surely, all the backless will be "marrying men"—and all the attractive married men will be "misunderstood."

Helen Rowland

All the photographs will be flattering, and all the hats will be becoming.

Every woman will have a girlish complexion, a boyish figure, a modish wardrobe, and a vampish eye.

Every damsel will be "the ONLY woman" in some man's life, and every woman will have RED HAIR.

All the husbands will be on time for dinner— and all the cooks will be as cheerful and faithful as contented cows.

Every man will know HOW and WHEN to kiss a damsel—and no man will need "first aid" in a proposal, nor required to be chloroformed and DRAGGED into marriage.

Every woman will have "the most beautiful eyes in the world"—and double-chins shall be unknown.

Banting shall pass away, and every "reducing diet" shall include lemon-pie and nut sundaes, and parfaits and whipped cream.

All the men will be clever enough to make money like Henry Ford—and foolish enough to spend it like King Tut.

Every man will have an original "line" and there shall be a death penalty for him that repeateth the SAME sweet nothing to two women.

Adam and Samson and Marc Antony will be held accountable for their own follies—and NO woman shall be made to suffer for a man's sins, nor held responsible for his indigestion.

Love will cease to be a matter of uncertainty, marriage will cease to be a matter of chance—and divorce will cease to be a matter of course.

Husbands shall be restrained from tormenting a woman with ADVICE, and no man shall revel in "I told you so."

Every man will make love like Valentino, dress like Jack Holt, look like Charles de Roche, and behave like the Prince of Wales.

Every night will be a moonlight night, every man a new sentimental conquest, and every day in a woman's life will make her a day YOUNGER!

Yes, surely, surely, in the Land of Tomorrow, every woman shall be granted all the desires of her heart; for "suffering" and "yearning" have been her only luxuries in THIS one!

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THERE are so many wants in the course of the day, there are so many things we demand—little wishes and longings that border our way and can shadow the sunniest land. There is wealth; through the ages the glitter of gold has lent lustre wherever it shone, yellow stuff that can dazzle the young and the old when all other enchantments have flown. For it buys all the splendor of beauty and art, all the lure of fair lands far away, all the gems that are dear to a woman's gay heart and the treasures of Rome and Cathay. There are so many wants; how men hunger for fame, how they strive through long years of defeat, toiling on towards the goal of an undying name, for the blossoms of glory are sweet. Many wants, varied wants; but the things which we need—ah, how few and how simple they are: Just the cheer of a word and the grace of a deed, and at twilight the gleam of a star! Just a low, cottage roof to keep Winter away, just a book and the glow of a fire, just a friend whose kind glance gives us strength for the day, ah! What more could a monarch desire?

EXPERIMENTS ON IS LIFE WORTH LIVING?

By DR. FRANK CRANE

A SIDE light has been thrown upon the important question, whether life was worth living or not, by the recent experiments of Professor Flugel.

No one can resist statistics and, in the wealth of arguments on the question, it is refreshing to have some solid facts.

The professor selected nine men to walk about with note books for a month in a comparatively unpleasant atmosphere, I do not know what, and note, all the time, their feeling of pleasure and displeasure.

To sum up the whole of the results they came out pretty well on the ordeal—67.72 per cent. of their experiences were pleasant and only 32.28 per cent. unpleasant. One of the group spent 1½ per cent. of his time in a state of pure ecstasy. He does not say whether this was due to eating, drinking, making love or reading poetry. The gloomiest of them was happy 46 per cent. of the time and unhappy 36 per cent.

One result of the test was noteworthy; the professor discovered that those who experience the extremes of happiness or dejection are, on the whole, the unhappiest. This is merely another way of saying that those who were incapable of feeling any deep emotion suffer less than those who feel deeply.

The ability to suffer pain is the cutting edge of the ability to enjoy pleasure and, as a rule, those who enjoy things the most are those who suffer other things the most. Their happiness or unhappiness is due to their ability to receive impressions.

Every man has looked at the lower creatures, including all animals and some human beings, and envied them because their general level of happiness seems to be above his own and they do not have the times of depression which he experiences. But we should remember that the ability to enjoy is in direct proportion to our ability to suffer and, if we enjoy anything keenly, that is proof that we can suffer keenly.

Whether on the whole it is better to have such a calm disposition that we can neither suffer nor enjoy is a question that the reader will have to settle for himself.

The human being seems to require a certain average. If he goes below it he must go above it and vice versa.

One lesson we may learn from all this is that self-restraint makes for long life and a general average of happiness. That is, those who restrain themselves from giving away too much in the one direction are those who will not be called upon to suffer in the other direction.

PLEA FOR HIGHER RESEARCH

By Garrett P. Serviss

Famous Astronomer and Writer on Scientific Topics of Popular Interest.

FRANCIS GANO BENEDICT, of the Carnegie Institution of Washington, has said something that ought to have a great number of hearers, or readers.

Discoursing at a university commencement on "the research spirit in modern life," he points out, what all the other eulogists of "research," as far as I have observed, have paid no attention to, even if they ever thought of it, and that is the absence of research in other phases of life than those dealing with material developments.

"It is sorrowfully true," says he, "that with the tremendous material advancement in the world in the past fifty or sixty years, there has not been a corresponding development of the intellectual powers with regard to the higher things of life.

"In spite of the decades, indeed centuries, of the ever-present example of the noblest in art, there has been a second Praxiteles. Today we have no Rembrandts, Raphaels or Vermeers, and there is no modern Shakespeare.

"We have no more 'Ninth' symphonies, and that 'tinkling tune' 'Yes, We Have No Bananas' will not make up for their loss, although the entertainment of those who enjoy that type of so-called music may be, and unfortunately only too frequently is fully satisfactory.

"It is perhaps surprising that with our increased knowledge of resonance, and the elasticity of metals and woods, there is still no substitute for the Stradivarius violin, though we have been inflicted with the saxophone.

"Here we have immediately a great research problem upon which we may study and reflect, and should act, as to why our esthetic, musical, artistic and spiritual life is not more progressive."

What Dr. Benedict says is excellent. It ought to have been said and insisted upon, many times before. Physical science has been enabled to claim almost exclusive credit for this spirit of research, while the work has been exploited on such narrowly material lines that many who aspire to higher things than money-getting profit-grabbing and unspiritual living have taken a distaste to word "research" itself, continuing dinned into their ears, as it is in connection with the advancement of purely material interests and achievements, which, however great and wonderful they are, do not, after all, represent what we believe to be the best that is in human nature.

Our great industrial establishments offer irresistible inducements to men who have shown in the universities their capacity for original research in science, and out of their search for new things that will "pay," occasionally emerge brilliant discoveries whose profit is only for science itself.

But it is in physical science only. Where is there an establishment that will offer similar inducements to men who show a capacity to advance music, painting, sculpture, literature, or any other of the higher arts, which truly adorn humanity? I fear that Dr. Benedict is only too right in suggesting that, in these things, we are slowly sinking the world to go backward.

Only a few days before this writing I met, in France, a young Greek, a refugee from the horrors of Smyrna, who, full of pride in the ancient and matchless renown of his country, could not talk enough of the great expectations that he entertained of the appreciative welcome that would be accorded in America to a masterpiece from the hand of Praxiteles, lent to that new, wonderful world in the west, to inspire it with the desire and the power to outdo the artistic triumphs of Hellenic genius.

I enjoyed his talk, but I feared that the spirit of prophecy was not in it.

WATCH YOUR BALLOT

ARE you familiar with the seven referendum questions which will appear on the State ballots on Election Day, November 4?

Many persons are not.

For their information the Boston American today begins publication of these questions and a concise explanation of each.

This will be run daily, and those who are unfamiliar with them are advised to clip each question and explanation for reference on Election Day.

They will enable voters to cast their ballots intelligently.

Referendum Question No. I—Amendment to Constitution

Shall an amendment to the constitution relative to the qualifications of voters for certain State officers (striking out the word "male"), which received in a joint session of the two Houses held May 24, 1923, 256 votes in the affirmative and none in the negative, and at a joint session of the two Houses held May 10, 1923, received 254 votes in the affirmative and none in the negative, be approved?

YES
NO

This referendum question is simply a proposal for a legislative amendment to the State constitution giving women the right to hold any State, county or municipal office. If you want women to have the right to hold any State, county or municipal office vote "yes;" if you do not, vote "no."

Referendum No. 2 will be printed here tomorrow.
